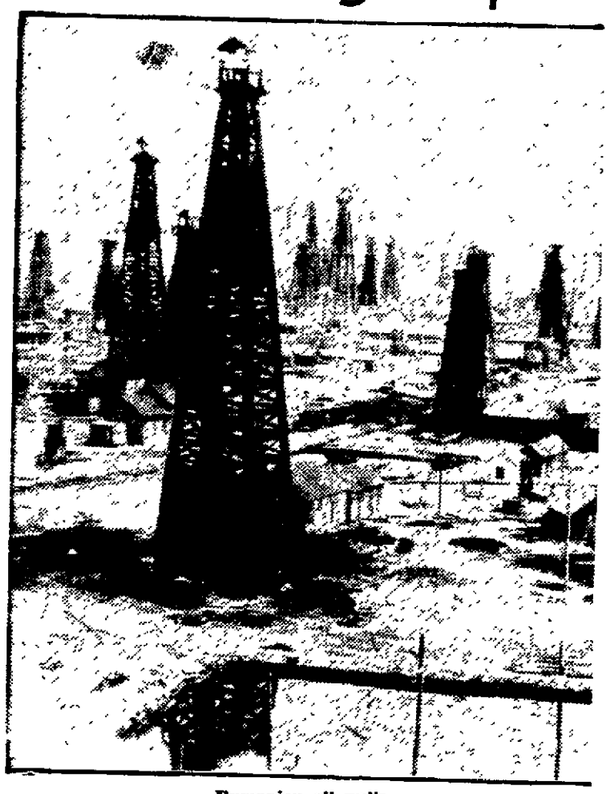
New Danger Spot



Rumanian oil wells.

What Rumania got in World war.

Rumania, at peace, now is projected into a precarious spot in Europe following the assassination of the premier, Armand Calinescu, foe of pro-Nazi Iron Guard. Germany seeks more Rumanian oil now that their war equipment is burning it up faster. But a mission to Bucharest for the purpose has been told the oil already is pledged to British, French and American companies. At the same time, Russia continues to eye territory taken during the World war. The map shows what territory was gained by Rumania as its share of the spoils following that war.

ARMS BAN REPEAL GAINS

Poll Shows 44 Senators Favor Lifting Embargo; 33 Others Keep Views Silent.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — A strict prohibition against American vessels carrying "any articles, materials or passengers" to any belligerents was incorporated today in the administration's bill to repeal the embargo against arms shipments to warring nations.

An Associated Press compilation showed that 44 senators, within five of a majority, had announced they favored repeal of the embargo.

Nineteen members have expressed themselves in opposition to repeal while 33, holding the balance of power, either have declined publicly to commit themselves at this time or have not been reached for comment.

Reflects Landon's Views.

Some senators thought the new provision was designed to win the support of legislators who, like Alf M. Landon, the 1936 Republican presidential candidate, report strong sentiment in the country for a general "cash and carry" system of sales to belligerents.

It was said reliably that the bill would also tighten up on presidential discretion, using the word "shall" instead of "may" frequently in outlining the chief executive's duties under the legislation.

At the same time, repeal opponents reported they were deluged with mail upholding their stand and talked further of forming an unofficial committee to "educate" the public.

Chairman Pittman (D., Nev.) of the senate foreign relations committee added the ban against American ships carrying anything to warring nations as a "seventh point" to this bill translating the administration's six-point neutrality revision program into legislative terms. He called all Democratic members of the committee, except Senator Clark of Missouri, an anti-repeal leader, to a meeting today to explain it.

The full committee will not meet until Monday. Pittman expressed

Spared by Jury

Velma Baker Fink, shown above, acquitted on first-degree murder charges in the slaying of her 10-week-old baby, today faced a sanity hearing as the final step to freedom. Judge A. V. Baumann, pointing out that the jury had found her innocent by reason of temporary insanity, said she would be taken to the state hospital for the criminal insane at Lima and held pending a hearing. "If Mrs. Fink is found sane, she can go free," he declared.

URGES FDR TO SHUN 3RD TERM

Landon Says Roosevelt Could Bring Unity by Announcing He Won't Run In '40.

BULLETIN

HYDE PARK, N. Y.—(AP)—President Roosevelt smilingly turned down today an invitation to reply to a suggestion by former Governor Alf M. Landon of Kansas that he announce to the country that he did not want a third term.

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK — To bring about that political unity in the United States he so ardently desires during the present crisis in world affairs, President Roosevelt should immediately announce to the nation that he would not accept a third term, former Governor Alfred M. Landon asserted today.

The Kansan, who was the Republican candidate for president in 1936, declared:

"It is inevitable that every move the president makes should be viewed in the light of 1940. The best possible thing he could do for unity, not only with Republicans but for unity in his own party would be to decline now to be a candidate in 1940.

"Evidence is everywhere of the weakening of the principles of democracy. The third term tradition is an important factor in the basis of our own democracy. It was designed for the single purpose of preventing centralization of power in one man."

The governor was asked if he believed that a declination by the president now would give Mr. Roosevelt stronger support in congress, now meeting in special session to consider changes in the embargo act.

"Certainly," he replied promptly, "especially in his own party."

"Peoples are confused today. They wonder what is going to happen and so long as 1940 lies ahead the confusion persists. Every word the president says, his every act, is considered from the viewpoint of politics."

MAYOR WRITES OF STUBBORN WARSAW STAND

Churches, Hospitals, Homes Destroyed But Troops Stick To Posts, He Says.

FOOD SUPPLY THREATENED

Civilian Casualties Run Into Thousands; City Bombed Day And Night.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Mayor Stefan Starzynski, who also is civil defense commissioner of Warsaw, now leading 1,000,000 civilians through one of the most destructive sieges of modern times, sent the following to the United Press at 7 p. m. (EST) last night in reply to a radiogram asking about conditions in the city:

By MAYOR STEFAN STARZYNSKI

WARSAW—I am sincerely glad to be able to convey to the American public a message picturing briefly the present situation in Warsaw.

I feel it an honor to be the mayor and civil commissioner for the defense of our capital in this hour of her supreme trial

(To Polish sympathizers throughout Europe Mayor Starzynski has become the hero of the hour. They refer to him as "Stefan the stubborn.")

The military position of the capital's defense, of course, is in the hands of the military staff but I can state that our troops up to this hour are maintaining their positions and gradually advancing.

The morale of our troops continues excellent.

I should like to comment on the methods of the Germans attacking Warsaw and I wish to reiterate my former statement in which I labeled these methods as a disgrace to modern civilization.

They consist in the intentional destruction of our historical buildings, our monuments, our churches, our hospitals, the homes of our working men and our asylums.

The number of our civilian casualties is important. It runs into the tens of thousands. And the major number of the casualties are civilians. Among the casualties women and children predominate.

We have food supplies on hand but the volume is such that we have resorted to careful rationing.

The health and lives of the mothers of families is endangered by the lack of foods they need to care for their young.

FOND FAREWELL

Summer Makes Final Gesture, Shoots Mercury to 82.

Summer's last stand today produced ideal weather which had a little of both summer and fall in it.

The temperature was a chilly 45 this morning but by noon it was up to a summery 82 degrees. The forecast was for fair and warmer weather tonight and showers and cooler Sunday.

Autumn will arrive at 5:50 p. m. today, the time which marks the autumnal equinox when day and night are the same length.

The arrival of fall saw temperatures about normal today in most sections of the nation except California where a heat wave continued. It was 103 at Los Angeles and Fresno.

Death a Mystery?

Death at the Polish front of German General Werner von Fritsch, who was purged from the Nazi army in 1938, but who returned to the army when the present war started, was reported in German dispatches which said he was "killed in action." Amsterdam heard reports, however, that von Fritsch may have committed suicide or may have been deliberately sent into a position of danger by his Nazi superiors, with whom he had been in disagreement at the time of the Austrian seizure.

BLACK CHARGED WITH CONTEMPT

Son of Ohio Brass Founder Cited When He Refuses to Produce Tax Records.

Robert B. Black, 41, Millsborough road, a director of the Ohio Brass company and oldest son of the late Frank B. Black, founder of the company, faced a charge of contempt today for his refusal to turn over records of his father's estate for use as evidence in a personal tax suit involving the estate.

An order of committment to jail was issued against Black late yesterday by Atty. H. M. Rust, a notary public, who was presiding during the taking of depositions from witnesses in the case, scheduled for hearing Oct. 5 before the fifth district appeals court in Canton. Rust said Black, who was called as a witness, refused to comply with his request for the records.

Learning from his attorneys that the order had been given to Sheriff E. P. Long, Black went to the sheriff's office where he was served with the paper, the equivalent of a warrant for arrest.

Sheriff Long detained him for two hours at his office in the county jail until a writ of habeas corpus for Black's release was signed by Judge Clyde C. Sherick of the

Tygers' Invasion of Massillon Tops Day's Grid Games

Coach Paul Snyder's Mansfield high school gridders invaded Massillon today for one of the major conflicts on their schedule.

The Tygers, who have yet to defeat Massillon in the rivalry started in 1936, were again rated as the underdogs in today's tilt.

The nearest Mansfield came to defeating Massillon was in 1937 when the two clubs battled to a 6 to 6 tie. Massillon's claim to the state football championship for the past four years has been generally recognized.

This is the only scholastic game of any importance on today's Ohio schedule. Last night Madison defeated New London, 32 to 7; Shelby and Willard battled to a scoreless tie, Crestline handed Galion its first defeat since 1937, 20-7; Bellville beat Granville, 25 to 14, and Butler bowed to Centerburg, 15 to 0.

SAFETY FIRST

Drunk Hands Self Over to Police to Escape Traffic.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M.—(AP)—A man wove his uncertain way into police station and requested he be placed in a cell. In police court he told the judge it was safer to be inebriated in jail than on the streets.

"I'd rather pay the $15 fine for drunkenness than be run over by a car."

Troops Repulse German Drives In Saar Valley

France Speeds Up Operations on West Front, Claims Hitler and Chief Army Aide Arrive to Direct Germany's Attempts to Win Back Losses.

(By Associated Press)

PARIS—Military dispatches reported today that German attacks on French positions "coincided with the presence on the western front of Adolf Hitler and Col.-Gen. Walther von Brauchitsch."

(A Berlin dispatch reported that Hitler, who has been in the field with his troops since the hostilities began, yesterday stood on heights within sight of Warsaw. Von Brauchitsch, commander in chief of the German army, previously had left Poland for the western front.)

French infantry forces were reported to have repulsed three separate German attacks aimed at regaining French-held German soil near Saarbruecken.

While French military circles said the Germans "are turning toward us from the east," a large-scale offensive on the west front still was awaited.

Military informants said the area between the Maginot line and Siegfried lines, the French and German fortification systems, might serve as "maneuvering territory" where the Germans probably would try various types of attack to test the strength of their foe.

Before grey-clad German assault troops stormed from their trench dugouts, German artillery blasted the French lines with hundreds of shells.

The French high command described the bombardment as "more intensive" than any before on the western front.

Lethal fire from French positions was said to have cut down the advancing Germans each time, finally compelling them to retire without winning an inch.

Artillery fire on both sides was said to have continued throughout the night in the Saarbruecken sector.

Aviation and artillery, meanwhile, were reported active in other zones.

German big guns along the Lauter river — which recently had been quiet — opened fire on French batteries in the vicinity of Wissembourg, these reports said.

In this area, the Lauter forms the boundary between France and Germany.

French gunners were reported to have replied shell for shell. Both, artillery and machine-gun bursts were said to have halted German advance patrols attempting to scout the zone.

Military information from the western front said the Germans had massed troops hurriedly brought from Poland and sent them into almost immediate action against the French.

The dispatches also reported concentrations of German warplanes along the east bank of the Rhine river, opposite the main ramparts of the French Maginot line. The planes, these reports

ROME: Time Has Arrived to End Hostilities, Mussolini Says

(By United Press)

ROME—Premier Benito Mussolini today declared that the moment has arrived to end hostilities in Europe.

In his first speech since last May, Il Duce, addressing Fascist party leaders from Bologna in the Hall of Battles at Venice palace said:

"The Polish question has been liquidated. Europe has not really entered into war.

"Armies have not yet met. A clash can be avoided by realizing that it is vain to attempt to maintain or reconstruct that which history and the natural dynamism of peoples already has condemned."

Mussolini said also that Italy has no reason to alter her decision to remain neutral or the decision taken by the cabinet on Sept. 1 when it agreed that Italy would take no military initiative in the European conflict.

"You must clean up the human residue living in dark corners," Mussolini said in an order to the Bologna leaders.

"You must clean up this riffraff which is circulating rumors, the most ridiculous of which have referred to me. I do not want to dramatize the situation because it is not worthwhile. But it is necessary that this Masonic and Jewish riffraff and these anti-Fascist for-

EAST: Allies Keeping Close Watch on Turk-Russian Parley

BULLETIN

LONDON—(INS)—Soviet Russia has given Turkey a guarantee that German troops will not be allowed to reach the Black sea, it was stated in an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Bucharest today.

(By International News Service)

The foreign minister of Turkey sailed the waters of the Black sea toward Odessa today on a mission of prime importance in the fate of Europe.

His choice of a maritime route on his journey to the land of the Soviets was almost symbolical.

For his conversations with Stalin and Molotov in the Kremlin at Moscow will revolve about Turkey's historic role as mistress of the Dardanelles and will determine whether or not the Black sea itself is to be a theater of hostilities in this ever-spreading war.

The chief objective of Shukru Saraoglu, the Turkish emissary charged with this important mission, doubtless will be to assure that the Black sea remains a watery oasis of neutrality. But it is a safe assumption that the decision one way or the other will lie not with him, but with Stalin.

The events of recent weeks indicate that he who goes to Moscow comes home the loser. That applies even in the case of Nazi Germany. For Adolf Hitler's foreign minister, Joachim von Ribbentrop, went to Russia to sign a non-aggression pact with the Soviets and had to pay with half of Poland for Bolshevik support in central Europe.

Two Oldest Policemen Honored As Officers Gather at Dinner

(Picture on Page 5)

Mansfield police solved a major "crime" last night, reversing police procedure by destroying the evidence and had a lot of fun doing it.

The "crime scene" was laid in the Hotel Southern and the "evidence" in the case consisted of fried spring chicken, with all the trimmings right down to apple pie and ice cream.

The occasion was a banquet honoring the two oldest members of the police force, one of whom retired only last week because of ill health.

Meeting at headquarters for "school" on the orders from Police Chief Meade K. Bates, shift captains were given sealed orders directing them to the crime scene. They were instructed to gather all evidence and report in an hour.

Arriving at the hostelry Capt. T. M. Bell, leading his detail, paused outside the room to give last-minute instructions about "protecting the evidence."

When he opened the door he was greeted with shouts of "happy birthday to you" and found fellow officers gathered around a banquet table.

Capt. Bell observed his 69th birthday several days ago and the department took this way of having a surprise party for him.

The group also honored William Kneeland who resigned last week because of ill health. They presented him with a retired patrolman's gold badge in recognition of his 20 years of service. Capt. Bell was presented with a traveling bag. The presentations were made by Lieut. Bruce Friday and Patrolman Howard Schuck in behalf of the force.

The dinner was attended by all members of the department while state highway patrolmen and sheriff's deputies covered their beats.

Guests at the party included Mayor Claude M. Hunter, Service-Safety Director Earl A. Nist, Sheriff E. P. Long and Ex-Chief William Lauer.

The committee on arrangements was comprised of Patrolman C. W. Kyler, H. G. Palmer and Russell Miles.

GRIFFITH LOSES BOUT IN COURT

Judge Orders Referendum Petitions Sent to Counties.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Common Pleas Judge Dana F. Reynolds, holding that Secretary of State Earl H. Griffith had overstepped his authority in rejecting civil service reorganization act referendum petitions, today ordered the petitions sent by Monday to county election boards for checking.

Griffith said he would appeal the ruling. A week ago upon advice of Atty. Gen. Thomas J. Herbert he rejected the petitions on the ground that numerous names did not conform to requirements and were invalid.

PATROLMAN ACQUITTED

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Patrolman Frank P. Green was acquitted last night on a charge of manslaughter in the death of Joseph Foreman, 23, colored, shot last May following a cafe altercation. Green testified he fired in self defense.

GET HOUR BACK

Daylight Saving Time Comes To End Tonight.

More than 30,000,000 Americans living in eastern communities where their summer days are measured by daylight saving time will go to bed tonight and will regain the hour's sleep they lost last spring when clocks were turned ahead.

These same clocks will be turned back between midnight tonight and tomorrow morning—it should be done at exactly 2 a. m. to be official—which will give them one hour longer to sleep.

The change does not affect Mansfield which has Eastern Standard time throughout the year, except that most radio programs will be an hour later than they have been this summer.

Arms Embargo Holds Heavy Majority In Poll

5 Out of 6 In City Vote for Present Law In Early Balloting.

Although too early in the poll to judge definitely, Mansfield appeared today in the first results of the voting in The News-Journal poll to be lined up five to one in favor of the present neutrality act with its embargo on arms.

This ratio was first established in a telephone poll conducted by The News-Journal Thursday, in which five out of every six persons favored the present act

LITTLE ANNIE ROONEY

I'M TOO EXCITED TO EAT— I DIDN'T SLEEP A WINK ALL NIGHT— ARE YOU SURE THE BOOK IS SAFE??
YES, MA'AM— I GOT IT ALL WRAPPED UP IN A SWELL PIECE OF CLEAN PAPER
IT'S ALL A WONDERFUL DREAM— TO THINK A LITTLE BOOK I CONSIDERED WORTHLESS IS REALLY WORTH HUNDREDS OF DOLLARS—
MAYBE MORE'N THAT—
DR. GOOD WROTE TO THREE DIFFERENT BOOK-COLLECTORS AN' THEY EACH SENT HIM A TELEGRAM SAYIN' THEY WERE RUSHIN' HERE TO MAKE HIM A GOOD OFFER——
OH—I HOPE EVERYTHING TURNS OUT ALL RIGHT— IF ANYTHING WENT WRONG NOW, I COULDN'T STAND IT
PLEASE, DON'T BE SCARED, MRS. SPRUCE— I'LL BETCHA EVERYTHING WILL BE GRAND AN' YOU'LL GET THE MONEY YOU NEED TO LIVE WITH YOUR SISTER—
DARRELL McCLURE
BUT HOW IN THUNDER DID THE LITTLE GAL KNOW AN OLD BOOK LIKE THAT WAS WORTH IT'S WEIGHT IN GOLD??
SHE DIDN'T KNOW— SHE WAS JUST TRYIN' TO SCRAPE UP EVERY PENNY AND HOPED SOMEONE WOULD GIVE HER FIFTY CENTS OR A DOLLAR FOR IT—
WHEN SHE TOLD ME THE BOOK HAD BELONGED TO MRS. SPRUCE'S GRANDMA— I REMEMBERED HEARING OLD BOOKS ARE SOMETIMES WORTH GOOD MONEY— I TOLD HER TO ASK DR. GOOD— HE'S BEEN TO COLLEGE AND KNOWS ALL ABOUT BOOKS
NOW THERE'S THREE OF THEM RICH BOOK-HUNTERS COMIN' HERE AS FAST AS TRAINS CAN TRAVEL FOR A CHANCE TO BUY THAT BOOK—!
SOUNDS STRANGE— BUT IF MRS. SPRUCE IS GONNA GET A LITTLE MONEY— I'M IN FAVOR OF IT!
BLACKSMI
I DON'T KNOW EXACTLY WHAT THE BOOK IS WORTH— BUT TWO YEARS AGO A COPY JUST LIKE IT SOLD FOR $750 IN BOSTON—
IT ALL SOUNDS TOO WONDERFUL TO BE TRUE
$750 FOR JUST ONE BOOK— GEE!
THE THREE STRANGERS ARE WITH DR. GOOD, MRS. SPRUCE AND ANNIE— I COULD HEAR EVERY WORD AS PLAIN AS DAY— THEY ADMIT THE BOOK IS A REAL FIRST EDITION OF EDGAR ALAN POE'S STORIES— AND THE LAST BID WAS $910.00
HURRAH
QUIET, YOU FOOLS! IF THEY HEAR YOU A-BELLOWIN'— IT MIGHT SPOIL THE SALE!!
THE GENTLEMAN OFFERS $1150.00 FOR THE BOOK, MRS. SPRUCE— DO YOU ACCEPT?
YES— OH, DEAR, YES— OF COURSE— CERTAINLY— COULD I HAVE A GLASS OF WATER— PLEASE?
DON'T CRY, MRS. SPRUCE— HERE'S A SWELL DRINK OF WATER— GLORYOSKY— AIN'T IT GRAND? NOW YOU KIN GO TO ARIZONA AN' YOU WON'T BE SICK NO MORE!
DR. GOOD, ARE YOU SURE I HAVE A RIGHT TO THIS MONEY? AFTER ALL, I GAVE THE BOOK TO ANNIE— NOW, YOU HAND ME A CHECK FOR $1150.
NONSENSE! YOU DIDN'T SUSPECT IT WAS A VALUABLE FIRST EDITION
MY GOODNESS— IF YOU GAVE ME A NICKEL FOR A PRESENT AN' IT WAS A THOUSAND-DOLLAR BILL— I COULDN'T KEEP IT, COULD I? THAT WOULD BE STEALIN'!
THE CHILD IS RIGHT— NO HONEST PERSON WOULD TAKE ADVANTAGE OF A MISTAKE— YOU LOVE ANNIE— AND I AM SURE SHE WILL NEVER REGRET HER ACTION—
GEE— I'M GLAD ALL OVER TO KNOW THE LITTLE BOOK WAS WORTH ALL THAT MONEY— 'CAUSE NOW YOU'RE GONNA LET ME LIVE WITH YOU IN ARIZONA— WE'LL LIVE IN A HOUSE WITH FURNITURE AN' EVERYTHING'S GONNA BE GRAND I'VE GOTTA LITTLE BUSINESS TO TAKE CARE OF— KEEP YOUR EYES OPEN— IF ANY LAW MEN COME SNEAKIN' 'ROUND ASKIN' QUESTIONS— YOU DON'T KNOW NOTHIN'! SEE?
AN' DON'T FORGET— IF THAT SISTER OF YOURS SHOWS UP— DON'T LET HER STEP IN MY HOUSE UNLESS SHE HAS THE CASH TO PAY FOR HER BOARD AND KEEP!!
YES— I UNDERSTAND, STORM— HAVEN'T I ALWAYS OBEYED YOUR ORDERS?
YOU'RE SMART ENOUGH TO KNOW WHAT WOULD HAPPEN TO YOU IF YOU DIDN'T!
GLORYOSKY, ZERO— AIN'T IT SWELL? MRS. SPRUCE IS GONNA TAKE US TO ARIZONA— SHE SEZ OUT THERE IT'S SUMMER ALL THE TIME— EVEN IN WINTER— I'LL BETCHA WE HAVE LOTSA FUN!!
WUFF!
HERE IS THE BEST PRESCRIPTION ANY DOCTOR COULD WRITE— TWO TICKETS TO A SUNNY, DRY CLIMATE WHERE OLD MOTHER NATURE WILL SEE YOU ENJOY A WORLD OF SUNSHINE. BEFORE AND AFTER MEALS——
I DON'T KNOW HOW TO THANK YOU, DOCTOR, FOR ALL YOUR KINDNESS— WITHOUT YOUR HELP— THE FUTURE HELD NOTHING FOR ME, EXCEPT POVERTY AND ILL HEALTH——
DON'T THANK ME— I WAS FIGHTING A LOSING BATTLE UNTIL A CERTAIN LITTLE STOUT-HEARTED YOUNGSTER CAME INTO YOUR LIFE, BRINGING YOU HOPE AND MUCH-NEEDED COMPANIONSHIP
I AM NOT FORGETTING ANNIE— I'LL ALWAYS BLESS THE DAY SHE FOUND ME LYING UNCONSCIOUS ON THE FLOOR— I HAD GIVEN UP HOPE AND HAD GROWN TIRED OF LIVING— WITHOUT HER FIGHTING SPIRIT I KNOW I WOULD NOT BE ALIVE NOW
G'WAN— YOU'RE JUST FOOLIN' ME— I DIDN'T DO NOTHIN'!

Cleared In Baby Slaying, Mrs. Fink Waits Sanity Test

JURY UPHOLDS INSANITY PLEA IN CLYDE CASE

Young Mother's Defense Maps Hearing to Keep Her From Confinement at Lima.

(By International News Service)

FREMONT—Plans were made today for a sanity hearing to free Mrs. Velma Baker Fink, 22-year-old divorcee, found not guilty yesterday of the murder at Clyde of her 10-month-old son, Haldon.

A jury of eight women and four men deliberated less than three and one-half hours before returning a verdict of not guilty by reason of insanity.

Judge A. V. Baumann said that Mrs. Fink would be committed to the Lima State hospital, as the law presumes that a person freed from a murder charge because of insanity remains insane until declared of sound mind.

Ben H. Dewey, defense attorney, said steps for a sanity hearing would be started at once.

That the defense plea of insanity brought on by childbirth was one of the chief considerations of the jury was made evident when the jurors asked for parts of the testimony of Dr. Louis Karnosh, Cleveland phychiatrist, who described the symptoms of childbirth insanity as a preface to his opinion that Mrs. Fink was insane..

Prosecutor A. L. Hyzer, who had asked the death penalty, declared after the verdict.

"The jury has spoken. I am satisfied."

Mrs. Fink was charged with throwing her son into Green creek, between Fremont and her home in Clyde, the night of June 13.

The jury's verdict was returned on the tenth day of a trial marked by unusual speed, with the jury unexpectedly completed the first day and the state's case finished on the second.

The defense required four days to examine 49 witnesses. The state called ten in its first day and one more in rebuttal.

Mrs. Fink has been under arrest here since the night of June 17, when she allegedly confessed after her second voluntary submission to lie detector tests.

City's Bonded Debt Drops to $563,275, Lowest In 10 Years

Mansfield's bonded indebtedness will be reduced to $563,275 by Oct. 1, Howard G. Miller, secretary of the sinking fund trustees, said today.

This figure, the lowest in 10 years, will be reached when the city retires $104,300 in bonds next week and pays $10,261 in interest on its obligations.

Payments already made this month total $28,667. This includes $24,500 principal of which $8,000 was on waterworks bonds and $16,500 on general bonds and $4,167 in interest.

Miller said that of the total bonded indebtedness against the city after Oct. 1, $441,925 will be in general bonds, $64,000 in waterworks revenue bonds issued by council last year and on which payments will start in 1940, $61,000 in special assessment bonds and $31,000 in waterworks bonds.

SCHOOLS GIVEN TAX ADVANCE

Allotted $166,000 Against Share For Final Half Year.

Mansfield schools today were allotted an advance of $166,000 against the county tax settlement for the last half of the year.

The advance, which includes $130,000 for school operation and $36,000 for debt payments, represents about 95 per cent of the tax money due the city's schools for the final half of the year, Deputy Auditor Arthur S. Beck said.

Dr. John H. Bristor, clerk of the board of education, requested the advance to meet the schools' payroll next week and to make up a $17,000 overdraft in the bond fund.

Up and Down THE STREET

In the audience of "The Talking Forest" last night in Dickson garden there were no more interested spectators than a group of people from Cleveland. They were Al Sutphin, owner of the Cleveland Hockey arena, with his wife and five children. The Sutphins were personally interested in the production because its author, Miss Roselyne Zychick, was formerly secretary to Mr. Sutphin. They were also among the sponsors of the production.

Massillon may have the niftiest chorus of majorettes, but the Mansfield High school band will not have to take a back seat in parading innovations at the annual football clash between the two schools today in Massillon. Mansfield's musicians will be led by what is claimed to be the two youngest drum majors in Ohio high schools. They are Joe Griffith and Robert Them, both 11 years old and experts with the baton. They were drafted from the grade schools.

Mansfield party of tourists on a western trip is seeing not only unusual scenery but experiencing unusual weather. One day while crossing the desert they went through a rainstorm and then emerged into a temperature of 100 degrees. The next morning they arrived at Yellowstone their car was covered with frost. Then they went to Long Beach and Los Angeles where the temperature was 102. The party including Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Florey and Mrs. Margery Ludwig of Mansfield, will come home by way of Boulder Dam, the Painted Desert and Texas.

Things "ain't what they seem" out on Oakwood drive and a section of Lind avenue, because these two streets which recently had their names changed upon petitions from property owners, are still marked with the old names. The new Oakwood drive was formerly East Park drive, while the former Alexander avenue became a part of Lind avenue. Council approved the change because the majority of property owners wanted it that way.

AFFIRM LOWER COURT VERDICTS

Appellate Judges Uphold Two Decisions, Reject Referee's Report In Third Case.

The Fifth district appeals court had handed down decision today in three of the seven cases heard here Wednesday and Thursday, affirming the lower court's ruling in two of them and overruling the referee's report in the other.

The court refused to set aside a $1,200 damage judgment awarded John A. McCue, Mansfield, against Carl H. Stander, Mansfield, for the flooding of McCue's property on West First street by surface water.

A $2,200 judgment awarded the Lumbermen's Mutual Insurance company against the Crawford County Farmers Mutual Insurance company was affirmed by the appeals court. The judgment was awarded on an insurance policy.

In the third case, the court overruled the report of John F. Kramer, referee in a case involving the transfer of a property in Mansfield. The decision was a reversal of the common pleas court opinion. The case was brought by Lottie Culler against Wade Culler and appealed by the plaintiff.

GARDENS TURNED INTO COLORFUL THEATER FOR JUVENILE FANTASY

The Dickson gardens, Woodland, was the scene last night of a colorful outdoor show when the Children's Theater and Junior Workshop presented "The Talking Forest" before an audience of more than 250

Colorful and clever costumes and special lighting on the outdoor stage, with the lily pool at the back and the willow trees at the side of the pool made the scene an unusual one.

The play written by Miss Roselyne Zychick of Mansfield is in three acts and scenes—a gypsy camp, a forest and a court ballroom. All three scenes were set and the two that were not in use were kept in darkness, while floodlights played on the one in use. Soft green lights were used on the forest scene.

The costumes for the "talking trees" covered the children like tree trunks and they carried branches so that they appeared to be trees. Colorful gypsy costumes and long court dresses and powdered wigs for the court scene added to the color of the presentation.

The play itself is concerned with the "curse" of a Wicked Queen. When she is not invited to the court ball, she invokes her wicked art to convert the ballroom into a forest and all the guests into trees. "And the spell shall not be broken," she said, "until some one who is fearless and courageous, compassionate and loving, shall dare to set you free." Years later, it is her own daughter, raised as a gypsy, who breaks the spell and frees the guests.

At the end of the play the author was presented.

"The Talking Forest" was staged and directed by Harold McCuen, director of the Children's Theater and Junior Workshop. He was assisted, in various departments by Robert Tawse, Miss Marguerite Speas, Miss Vivian Walter, Miss Miriam Jenkins, Miss Ruth Smith, Mrs. Edward Gibson, Miss Lois Robinson, Joseph Pival, Mrs. L. A. Meisse and Mrs. Estes C. Thompson.

YOUTHFUL GANG CONFESSES AS LOOT'S FOUND

Turns Son Over to Police as He Finds Gun In His Room; Boy Implicates Others.

Police today announced they had cleared up at least five burglaries and several petty thefts which have occurred here within the past month with the arrest of a youthful gang of thieves.

Four youths ranging in ages from 14 to 16 years were held in custody while officers were searching for two others whom they said were implicated with the gang.

The arrest of the boys came last night after one of the youth's father brought him to police headquarters with a gun he said was found in his room.

The weapon was identified by officers as a gun stolen from a South Adams street home during a burglary two weeks ago.

After questioning the boy implicated the other youths who were rounded up by detectives last night and this morning.

Find Loot In Homes.

Officers said loot found hidden in their homes was identified as valuables taken in burglaries here in recent weeks. It included several watches and rings and a quantity of gum and candy.

The boys who were being questioned by officers today were said to have admitted burglarizing at least two homes and three garages besides the ransacking of numerous automobiles.

Part of the loot, officers said had been sold. They said they expected to pick up the other youths, one of whom has a police record, this afternoon. They are to be arraigned before Judge C. J. Anderson in juvenile court next week.

Meanwhile detectives were investigating the theft of 1,600 pounds of block tin from the Ohio Brass company.

The tin, consisting of 16, 100-pound ignots, valued at $800 was stolen from the company's metal vault Thursday night. Police said entrance was gained by drilling a hole in the door and then unfastening the lock.

Not That It Matters

If Neutrality Argument Puzzles You, You're In Class With Best Brains

—By JANE WILLIAMS

DON'T go working yourself into a dither—as I have—over the neutrality bill, because no matter which side you favor, you may be wrong. When the best minds in the country, the keenest analysts, can't agree, how can WE possibly hope to be right?

The two plans—the present law with its arms embargo, and the president's proposal which lifts the embargo—both have their good points and their weak points. The president's plan—in theory at least—seems to me to provide for even more complete isolation than the present law.

It's weakness—and remember this is only the opinion of a Mere Woman—lies in that cash-and-carry provision, which is all wrong because there isn't enough cash in all Europe to carry on a pay-as-you-go war for four or six years.

A Mansfield banker told me yesterday that most of the gold in the world is buried in a vault in Kentucky and that if we were smart we would just give it to the European nations and let them use it to buy war supplies of us on a cash-and-carry basis. "Because," he said, "none of them has money enough to carry on a long drawn out war and we are going to have to pay for it in the end, anyway."

Maybe I wasn't up to par, but it sounded like Brain Trust stuff to me.

EVEN that usually astute gentleman of the press, David Lawrence, seems to me to have forsaken practicability in this neutrality argument. "Senator Borah . . . concedes at the outset his willingness in time of war to shut our factories, keep our citizens home and let the entire American sovereignty be curtailed at the whim of foreign nations," he writes in the United States News. "For it is a sovereign right we possess to travel the oceans in our own ships to neutral ports."

It certainly is our sovereign right—just as it is our right to hold to our side of the highway when a drunken driver is approaching, or to walk out into the middle of the street when two gunmen are fighting it out. It is our RIGHT, but heaven help us if we take advantage of it.

ONE of the greatest arguments advanced for the abandonment of our present neutrality law is one of dollars and cents. Business will suffer, they say, and there will be another depression.

So then it becomes a matter of dollars and cents vs. American boys. Personally, I'm willing to go through a depression that will make me walk barefoot through the snow, with nothing but turnips and mush to eat for six years, if it will keep American boys out of European trenches.

And in the long run, I think we would be better off economically—because we didn't do so good after the last war boom.

POINTS NORTH: The Canadian parliament declared war one afternoon and the next morning when housewives went to the corner grocery they found a war tax of ten cents a pound on coffee and five cents a pound on tea. And taxing a Canadian's tea is like taxing his breath. And imagine the wrathful surprise of returning American tourists who sought to bring back a bottle of Scotch, and found that their favorite brand, which had sold for $3.75 a few days before had a tax of $1.50 a quart on it. . . . And everywhere soldiers were being mobilized, and were marching in kilties and khaki. . . . And at recruiting stations wheezy old gramophones were grinding out the old pulse-and-step quickeners: "Tipperary," "Over There" and "Madelon." . . . This will be the last year that the Dionne quints may be seen by the public, but they are cuter, prettier and brighter than ever, according to the Head of the Williams Clan, who saw them for the third time. . . .

IS SENATOR ROBERT TAFT going to turn out to be of those buster-offers-out-of-turners? In California this week the Cincinnati senator expressed himself on the neutrality bill, which he had a right to do, but made the mistake of publicly wishing that Great Britain and France would whip the pants off of Germany, or words to that effect.

Which may be all right for you and me to say when we meet at luncheon, but it certainly was out of turn coming from a man who may be regarded by foreign nations as having an authoritative voice.

After all, aren't we SUPPOSED to be neutral?

FAIR ENOUGH!

Picketing Losing Favor With Public On Account Of Many Ramifications

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—The time was, not very long ago, when the presence of pickets around a place of business was accepted by the public as a sign that the employes were having a dispute with the boss.

The original purpose of picketing was to dissuade non-strikers or strikebreakers from entering the premises. Theoretically, the pickets were to confine themselves to non-violent appeals, but local police and professional sluggers entered the situation and picketing for a time was roughly synonymous with rioting.

Labor unions claimed that the fights were started by the police and the company thugs, and the public apparently accepted this version, because, for a long time, the picket lines enjoyed the sympathy and respect of the bystander. A union man held it to be a great sin to cross a picket line.

Nowadays, however, with unions striking against other unions in certain cases, union men do cross picket lines, and this example and many known abuses of the weapon of picketing have alienated much of the sympathy of the public.

Pickets have been seen parading about premises in which the employes were members of rival unions, the proprietor of a moving picture theater in New York reports that pickets importuned his patrons not to take the bread out of the mouths of their children by patronizing unfair houses, although the theater was manned by union help from front to back, with the exception of the manager, who was a partner.

The union demanded the right to select the manager, and the dispute was solved when the owner-manager joined the union, which meant that he had to pay tribute for the right to manage his own business.

In San Francisco a few years ago pickets were seen picketing pickets, which is to say that one union declared the store unfair to labor and the other put men right on the heels of these pickets to deny the charge.

Parades have been held in front of business houses which were having no union trouble with their own employes because these firms had commercial dealings with other firms which were struck. Such commercial dealings are usually covered by legal contracts, and a picketed house in no way concerned in the original dispute might be penalized in court for breach of contract if it were to cancel dealings with a struck firm merely to appease a union.

There seems to be no redress for a firm picketed under such circumstances.

The victims must take their losses, and if the decline of business due to picketing makes it necessary to lay off employes, even union men, that is their hard luck.

Judges, being politicians, hesitate to enjoin unions from secondary picketing, and a judge who does enjoin it is himself declared to be an enemy of labor and tool of the bosses and, in effect, picketed.

The technical, parliamentary right of minorities to call strikes and establish picket lines supported by pickets assigned from headquarters is subject to abuse, but, on the other hand, is no longer overlooked by majorities. If a union can sign 16 members of a department having 30 employes that union can call a strike by a majority vote of the members present at a strike meeting, which means that if a dozen men attend the meeting and seven vote to strike, those seven can throw a picket line around a plant employing several hundred, with full rights to insult, slander and, subject to certain risks, to assault non-strikers going through the line.

As a result of many abuses of the picketing privilege the picket line has lost much of its prestige with the public and its influence in organized labor.

Lutherans Stress Neutrality; Bishop Cautions Catholics

A Lutheran "encyclical" urging the necessity of complete neutrality in the present European conflict has been received my Mansfield Lutheran ministers from Dr. Frederick H. Knubel, president of the United Lutheran Church of America.

The "encyclical" was sent to 3,500 ministers of the church to be made known by them to members of the United Lutheran Church.

In the statement, Dr. Knubel expresses particular concern for the Canadian members of the Church who already are involved in war. He goes on to call attention to the bewilderment which is the result of wide-spread propaganda, "the self-justification of nations and the strife of tongues."

Despite wide-spread fears for "the destruction of civilization, the loss of precious liberties, the triumpht of brutality, the reign of godlessness," Dr. Knubel expresses confidence that "mercy and truth, righteousness and peace will meet again and kiss each other. . . . Evil cannot prevail in the end, for Christ has overcome the world."

In urging all members of the Church to remain strictly neutral Dr. Knubel declares, "It is for us to be not pro-English nor pro-French nor pro-German but clearly pro-Christian."

He warns further that "mere plans for neutrality will not keep us out, if we continue to sin—if we continue prejudiced participation in other nations' sins, if we selfishly profiteer on other nations miseries, if we fail in loving relief to the suffering of them all."

Catholics in the diocese of Toledo which includes Mansfield and Richland county, were cautioned by Bishop Karl J. Alter this week to maintain an attitude consistent with sound Christian principles in the present war situation.

Speaking to the priests of the diocese at a meeting in Toledo, he said the consistent Catholic will follow three fundamental principles in formulating his attitudes and will refuse to be stampeded into a position of partisanship by well meaning but unwise appeals.

These include he said, stand for peace based upon justice and charity; assist in the alleviation of distress and suffering wherever it exists and as far as his means will permit; and pray for the war dead and afflicted and invoke divine help to restore a sound Christian order in international relations.

The bishop asserted that the pulpit of the Catholic church represents a privileged forum of the revealed word of God and the official teaching of the church.

"It must not be used for the expression of personal opinions no matter how sincere the convictions of the individual," he added.

'REALITY' TO BE SCIENTIST TOPIC

Lesson-Sermon Will be Read at Services Tomorrow.

"Reality" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Church of Christ, Scientist, Sunday.

The Golden Text is: "Since the beginning of the world men have not heard, nor perceived by the ear, neither hath the eye seen, O God, beside thee, what he hath prepared for him that waiteth for him" (Isaiah 64:4).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "I know that, whatsoever God doeth, it shall be for ever: nothing can be put to it, nor any thing taken from it: and God doeth it, that men should fear before him" (Ecclesiastes 3:14).

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 23, 1939.

Drive carefully tomorrow—the casualties of peace sometimes exceed those of war.

It may be merely a coincidence, but it does appear that more sea serpents are being seen nowadays than during prohibition.

It takes all kinds of people—including those who decry war but enjoy seeing two huskies batter up each other in a prize fight.

Seeing How Things Are Made

BETTER acquaintance of Mansfield people with Mansfield industries should be encouraged.

Such an opportunity as was given at the Chamber of Commerce meeting Thursday evening for several hundred persons to get a close-up view of the Westinghouse plant in operation was well worth while, and the way in which refrigerators, ranges and other electrical products pass along the assembly line toward final completion was a revelation to everyone not familiar with the processes of quantity production.

A number of other Mansfield industrial concerns, large and small, also present opportunities for interested visitors to become better informed as to the wide diversity of the products of local factories and to better understand the important part that industry plays in making this a thriving and growing city.

It would be especially advantageous for young people of junior and senior high school ages to learn more about Mansfield industries, and their various employment possibilities, than can be done without actual contact with some phases of operation while they are still in school.

Vocational training has been coming into vogue in recent years as a part of school work, and there has also been more stressing of the practical side of education, in preparation for getting a job and earning a living.

At least for those students who evidence some aptitude for industrial employment and who indicate an interest in a particular line of work, the way should be opened, while they are still in school, to acquaint themselves with modern manufacturing methods and to thus gain a better understanding of what will be required of them when the time comes to look for a job.

Vocational guidance of ambitious and energetic young people provides a fine field in community service for men whose work involves industrial management or supervision.

Let's hope that a condition never comes about that makes it necessary to fortify several thousand miles of border between the United States and what is now Canada.

Peace Committee Adjourned

THE Carnegie Endowment for International Peace has discontinued its advisory committee in Europe. This group was composed of eighteen members, including statesmen and leaders of public opinion from nine countries. What happened to it affords instructive insight into the complex problem of co-operation on that continent. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of the Carnegie Endowment, describes the situation as follows:

The committee's Austrian and Czecho-Slovak members had been forced to become Germans and drop out. The Polish member approaches a like position. One of the German members had become a British citizen. The Italian and Spanish statesmen still on the committee were no longer welcome in their native countries.

The breaking-up of this group of men who had been working intelligently for international peace is a discouraging tragedy, but they, or others of like purpose, will get together again and again in the years to come, and their successors may succeed where they have failed.

One of the difficulties in understanding God is that both sides in a war claim He is on their side.

Babies of the Poor

THE United States Children's Bureau presents some statistics about present-day life in this country. More than 1,000,000 babies a year are born in families either on relief or with a total yearly income of less than $1,000. Many of these babies and their mothers receive no special care and many others have only such assistance as a sympathetic but untrained neighbor can give.

In 780 counties of the United States there are no public health nurses and in only 14 rural counties are there prenatal centers.

And what of the other children and the adults in families who must live on such low incomes? What of their food, clothing and shelter, and their attitude toward their fellow men and democracy? Those vital statistics from the Children's Bureau certainly deserve thought.

THIS is the future toward which people all over the world looked so happily while celebrating the signing of the Armistice on November 11, 1918.

Impractical Psychology

DR. GORDON ALLPORT of Harvard university, retiring president of the American Psychological association, gave his fellow authorities what might be considered a bawling out the other day at a meeting in Berkeley, Cal. He told them they were less competent than head waiters to forecast human behavior.

Psychologists, he said, had withdrawn so far into their laboratories and had worked so hard on problems that have little relation to pressing human difficulties that they had lost their practical touch with people.

The head waiter's great knowledge of human behavior is based on long and often painful experience dealing with individuals and small groups. He knows how people are likely to act under certain conditions, but he can hardly know why. The psychologist of whom Dr Allport complains knows "why" but not "how." A nice combination of the two types of understanding is what should be sought.

Take a look at a globe and then you'll wonder what Russia wants with any more territory.

Step Toward Security

AMERICAN life insurance companies report that 302,505 men and women, generally 65 years and older, lived in whole or in part upon income payments from insurance in 1938. The total sum paid was $112,957,705.

Since that means an average of less than $400 a year, it is clear that some of these people are not living in luxury on their insurance. But the difference between $400 a year and nothing is considerable, and $400 added to other small income may mean comfort and security.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—One of little old New York's most picturesque customs has been victimized by the war, and henceforth no foreign flags will fly from the mastheads when visiting diplomats and other distinguished dignitaries are guests in New York hotels. Ever since New York has been a metropolis of any consequence whatever, it has been an interesting ceremony to honor foreign representatives by raising their native flags above the hotels where they were guests. I have often seen the Union Jack floating lazily by the side of the Stars and Stripes above one of the major hotels in Manhattan, and that was as sure an indication as word from the embassy at Washington that Sir Ronald, the former British ambassador, was in town. Indeed you had only to drive through the avenue and note the colors above the hotels to guess fairly accurately who the day's visiting diplomats were.

A number of hotels in discontinuing this time honored courtesy give as their reasons: neutrality. In keeping with the president's request that everyone refrain from making statements, or in making display, of words, and deeds, these hotels believe the interests of American peace will best be served if the flag custom is suspended, temporarily anyway. And so from now on the only waving colors you will see will be the American flag. And the only national anthem you will hear in the dining rooms and dance halls of these hotels will be your own. Because foreign national anthems have gone the way of all flags.

It may be interesting to you to consider that this flag ceremony, while courteous and a very flattering, is also an expensive one. There are, literally, hundreds of nations. The large type of flag used in this ceremony is extraordinarily expensive. So that when you consider that hundreds of these flags must be purchased, you may appreciate that here is an investment running into thousands of dollars.

ANOTHER gesture in behalf of neutrality is particularly noteworthy and calls for a hats off to Fredric March and the producers of his play "The American Way," which is anti-Nazi in every line and castigates the German-American Bunds. The producers announce the play was being closed because it inflamed public opinion and, therefore, worked against the interests of peace.

An unfortunate consequence of this, however, will be unemployment for a cast of actors and actresses which totals more than one hundred people. Thus they take their place with others who are the unfortunate victims of war.

I WAS thinking the other day when I read this notice in the newspapers what a marvelous time O. Henry would have, and what wonderful opportunities it would suggest to Jimmy Valentine, if they were around.

The notice I refer to was the paid advertisement of the Bank For Savings, and it stated simply that 356 persons had at one time or another opened savings accounts and forgotten to call about them. This must have happened a long time ago, for the bank suggests that the people who opened these accounts, or their "heirs," put in their claims.

Now under state law these funds will revert to the state unless petitions are put through and authenticated. So if you have any long lost uncle who went to Australia a long time ago and disappeared, you'd better ascertain whether or not his name is on this list. It just might be that here in New York a tidy fortune is waiting for you.

If you live out of the city and would like a list of the names published in connection with this affair, I presume the Bank For Savings, New York, N. Y., would be glad to send you one.

FIVE-YEAR PLAN?

Believe Embargo Repeal Assured

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt counts on an increasing swing by the house and senate towards his side of the arms embargo issue. The president has been much surprised at the volume of sentiment in the country against any change in the status quo. He thinks his own persuasion will calm the fears of farmers, mothers, and—surprising as it may be that they feel that way—even workers in steel and munitions plants that such a move as he desires is in the direction of embroiling the United States in the European conflict.

The president's concern is not about the actual passage of the embargo repeal. That is certain when a vote can be forced. He is anxious now to make the majorities so heavy for the removal of the present restrictions on "freedom of the seas" that the final votes of the house and senate will carry conviction to London and Paris, more particularly to Berlin and Moscow, and perhaps most important of all, to Rome.

CONGRESS is being deluged with propaganda against getting the United States into the war. Letters and telegrams insisting that the embargo against shipments of arms, ammunition and implements of war should be lifted run not very far behind. They come not only from the Middle West, where pacifist sentiment, is always rampant in any crisis, but actually from the "munitions belt" itself—from Connecticut and New Jersey and Pennsylvania and Ohio.

They come in such volume that many senators and representatives who want to go along with the president on lifting the embargo are a little bit worried about the possible political consequences of doing so.

In some cases, though these are exceptional, even the executives of business concerns which, in the popular mind, are classified as war babies, have informed their congressmen that they are not so keen about war expansion, realizing what a headache will come following the inevitable armistice.

ACOUNT of noses in both senate and house shows, however, that could the vote have been taken before the president addressed congress on Thursday, the votes for repeal were there. This is true even if one leaves out every one of the doubtful and weak-kneed brethren. So, with eventual victory assured, the president will utilize the time that the senate is sure to take for debate to win over the folks back home so as to bolster up the courage of the legislators.

Behind this move there is a longer strategy. The president intends to take action at every opportunity to show the world, as he did in his telegram to the president of Poland, where the United States sympathy is in any such brutal war of aggression. And the president believes that in doing so he will whip up American sentiment against Hitlerism.

Incidentally, the White House is extremely interested in recent Gallop polls which show, for instance, that percentages of 13 and 18 of Republicans and Democrats, respectively, who opposed joining the war and sending troops to help Britain and France, jumped to 42 and 46 per cent when the question was changed to include the possibility that Britain and France would lose.

In short, as viewed by the White House, American sentiment in overwhelming majority wants Hitler crushed, but wants some other country's sons to do it if possible, while nearly half the country already is willing to give its own sons if that eventually turns out to be the only way to do it!

Timely Editorial

Industrial Changes.

The movement of manufacturing industries toward the south has been a notable feature of recent years. It has been going on in a natural manner for 20 years, but during the past five it has been artificially stimulated until it is now a factor in national production, and a mark of the change in the regional set-up in the country.

Mississippi, traditionally an agricultural state, last year actually produced manufactured products whose value exceeded that of its farm products.

It has done this without developing any great industrial cities. The industries which have developed have sprung up in small towns, usually at places where raw materials could be processed on the ground.

The face of the country and its regional characteristics are changing before our very eyes, and as usually is the case in such things, the changes will probably be largely accomplished before we realize it.—Fremont Messenger.

Stop Playing "Last Look."

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

I'M ONE of these "Looking-Backers." Always remembering and regretting. No sooner do I get my Dead Past nicely buried than I dig the darned thing up again to see if it wasn't even messier than I remembered. Which it invariably is. Never, by any chance, are things as bad as I thought they were. They're always ten times WORSE!

Does this habit make me a cheerful lil' House Mate? It does NOT! Occasionally I manage to forget my flops and failures and become the life of the party. But generally speaking, I'm the Chief Mourner at every feast. All I need to be a Complete Funeral is just another chair. Otherwise, I triple perfectly for coffin, corpse and crepe.

Who asked me to give you all these intimate personal details? Nobody, dearie — nobody. But I have a swell hunch that they're not so personal after all. In fact, I'm willing to wager that at least 999 out of 1,000 Gentle Readers are similarly afflicted—and equally afflicting!

Remember when we were youngsters, coming home from school, how we used to play "last look." First, you'd give Mabel a "last look" . . . then she'd give you one . . . and you'd give her one . . . and she'd give you . . . an' . . . But you know how it went . . . on and on endlessly, with neither of you willing to stop. Silly, wasn't it? Yet that's the way most of us feel about the D. D. Days that are gone—or would be, if we'd let them. We just can't shove off and forget them; we must be, forever, taking one long, lorn, last look.

Well, what's the harm in a few reminiscent sniffles? None—if it stopped right there. But it never does. For each hour we spend in sobbing over Yesterday is an hour lost in tackling Today . . . a habit which is apt to prove mighty handy, if we wish to dodge some disagreeable duty . . . or grab the spotlight. Nothing like a Load of Confession for drawing an audience! So the casual sigh soon becomes a calculated one . . . and the gnawing regret soon becomes a blooming racket!

FOR IT'S A HEAP MORE FUN TO SIGH OVER A MISSPENT PAST THAN IT IS TO TACKLE A PESTY PRESENT.

But, in the long run, it's a bad bargain. Blubbering over an old mistake buys you nothing . . . BUT YOU CAN DO GREAT THINGS FOR YOURSELF IF YOU'LL BUILD ON THEM!

Do you recall Oliver Wendell Holmes's lovely poem, "The Chambered Nautilus"? A seashell, curling, whorl upon widening whorl, around its small, dark, central shell . . . it took a great poet to see the tie between that groping nautilus and a growing soul . . . but to Holmes all the glory and tragedy of man's spiritual struggle lay pictured there. For the small sea creature—and the man—both struggled for the light. And sometimes both gave up before the struggle had gone far. But sometimes they build instead of staying bound . . . and, out of those limited beginnings, there came wider and freer beauty. And so Holmes wrote—

"Build me more stately mansions,
O my soul,
As the swift seasons roll!
Leave thy low-vaulted past!
Let each new temple, nobler than the last,
Shut thee from heaven with a dome more fast.
Till thou at length are free,
Leaving thy outgrown shell on life's unresting sea."

"LEAVE THY LOW-VAULTED PAST!" . . . Don't blubber over the mistakes you've made . . . BUILD ON THEM . . . FIGHT FREE . . . UNTIL AT LAST YOUR SOUL'S BRIGHT WINGS ARE SET FOR THE WIDE SEA!

Summary of Week's Happenings

—By ASSOCIATED PRESS

TALK about how to keep America out of Europe's war progressed, this week, from a free-for-all argument to a parliamentary debate that may make a fat chapter in tomorrow's history books.

President Roosevelt opened Thursday with a personal message to congress on the first day of its special session. He believes that broad principles of international law offer, on the whole, a safer guide than the 1937 neutrality act with its arms embargo.

Opponents argue the White House policy is the road to war. Says Idaho's Senator Borah: "If in a few months we can tear up the law which a nation almost universally approved, how long do you think it will take to put across the proposition of sending our young men into the trenches once we have intervened?"

Counters Secretary of State Cordell Hull: "Those who urge the retention of the present arms embargo continue to advance the view that it will keep this country out of war — thereby misleading the American people to rely upon a false and illogical conclusion."

Both Mr. Roosevelt and the Republican high command agreed to leave politics out of the neutrality scrap. The president included G. O. P.'s 1936 standard bearers, Alf M. Landon and Col. Frank Knox, in a White House round-robin on the subject Wednesday.

Present Provisions.

The neutrality law that brings congress back early represents the first effort of any nation to anticipate its course in time of war. Supporters and critics agree it abandons, in effect, several traditional rights of a neutral nation under international war.

Briefly, it: (1) Prohibits American shipment of arms and ammunition to belligerents; (2) permits sale and shipment of other goods and allows American ships to go wherever international law permits; (3) forbids Americans to travel on belligerent ships except in special cases; (4) forbids Americans to purchase securities of a belligerent but permits normal commercial credits; (5) prohibits solicitation of funds for belligerent governments but allows private citizens to pass humanitarian collection plates; (6) provides a national munitions control board.

Presidential Proposals.

In principle, the administration quarrels only with the arms embargo. It advocates, instead, sale of all goods, including arms, to belligerents; transfer of title in all war-bound cargoes to foreign purchasers before shipment; barring American ships from combat zones.

Whether keeping American ships out of combat zones, and compulsory transfer of cargo ownership, would be equivalent to cash-and-carry remains to be cleared up. How about shipments to Canada?

Also undefined is the ultimate American attitude toward trade restrictions already imposed by the belligerent nations, such as search and seizure of American ships and cargoes. In all previous wars that was the big trouble between neutral U. S. and touchy belligerents. Political railbirds say it's going to be the trigger issue again.

At Home

Waterfront Wrangling.

To sail into Europe's troubled waters, U. S. seamen figured they ought to get extra pay and life insurance. Ship owners agreed "in principle." But an argument over details, this week, held up the sailing from New York of eight liners scheduled to remove Americans from war zones. Federal authorities: (1) Put 61 strikers on trial for refusing to obey their skipper's command to take a ship to sea; (2) ordered both sides to "go into conference and stay there" until agreement was reached. A settlement Thursday granted the men a 25% pay boost for trips to European and Mediterranean ports.

Just In Case . . .

If the U. S. ever gets into war, the army and navy will be ready with a selective service plan which, it was estimated this week, could muster 4,100,000 men, ages 21 to 30, for immediate military duty. But the draft, as proposed, would drag from his machine or office no man whose job is vital to industry. "The procurement of men," according to this plan, "is to be accomplished with the minimum of disturbance to the economic and social structure of the nation."

High Cost of Loafing.

America's depression loss because of idle men and machines was estimated by the National Resources committee, this week, at $200,000,000,000 — enough to build every U. S. family a $6,000 house.

Abroad

Premier Assassinated

Death of Rumania's premier, Armand Calinescu, at the hands of machine-gun assassins Thursday, threw further complications into the eastern Europe turmoil as an immediate accusation was made that the killers were members of the pro-Nazi Iron Guard which had been outlawed in Rumania.

Within the day eight Iron Guardists, alleged participants in the slaying, had been publicly executed on a Bucharest main street and King Carol had installed a new government headed by stern disciplinarians.

The killing further threatened the delicate balance between peace and war in southeastern Europe.

Warsaw Resists

Collapse of the Polish front, under Germans from one side and Russians from the other, left Hitler's eastern armies only the tasks of policing conquered territory and mopping up pockets.

Last major pocket was the Polish capital itself. "Warsaw will resist," its radio asserted Wednesday. "The occupation of a city of 1,000,000," a Nazi war correspondent explained, "is a technical problem of great delicacy."

On the west artillery duels, raids by small patrols and occasional skirmishes involving tanks, planes and infantry were reported along the 40-mile Maginot-Siegfried front between the Moselle and Rhine rivers.

War on the Sea.

"A number of U-boats have been destroyed," the British admiralty announced, as the war entered its third week. And to the estimated half dozen, Britain believed despite Germany indications to the contrary, another was added Monday. But not before it had sent to the bottom Britain's 22,500-ton aircraft carrier Courageous. Of 1,260 men aboard, 682 survivors were accounted for.

Of 39 ships lost, 23 were British, one French (the cruiser Pluton, on which an explosion and fire killed 100 sailors last week), nine German (including a destroyer that hit a German-laid mine in the Baltic), six neutral.

Northern Non-Combatants.

Netherlands Queen Wilhelmina, in a speech to parliament Monday, rejoiced in "our friendly relations with all powers" and expressed confidence in her army's ability to defend that neutrality. At Copenhagen, next day, representatives of Denmark, Sweden, Norway, Finland and Iceland declared their joint intention of doing business with all countries.

QUOTES

Howard Coonley, head of the manufacturers, asks America to preserve peace: "In a world distraught by force, the best way to preserve representative democracy is to practice it."

Matthew Woll, A. F. of L. vice president, sees danger in the C. I. O.-A. F. of L. split: "Unless there is an end to this conflict there may be an end of the labor movement."

Business

Relief Rolls to Payrolls.

Fall buying normally boosts business after Labor Day. And 1939's September brought the added stimulus of a war boom in industrial securities and commodities. By this week, a nation-wide survey disclosed Monday, the upturn was making "a real dent" in America's estimated 10,000,000 unemployed.

Heavy backlogs of orders for steel, ships, airplanes and textiles promised additional shifts from relief rolls to payrolls. Residential building reached its highest level since 1929. "Money," Treasury Undersecretary Hanes noted, "has been coming out of storm cellers."

Consensus of 150 trade-journal editors: Industry may face a brief period of contraction after the first flush of war buying wanes, to be followed by another surge forward and a "sharp rise in certain industries."

Down But Not Out.

Wholesale commodity prices, following the 1914 pattern, slipped this week from peaks hit when war started. Grains, by Tuesday, were off 5 to 10% from last week's tops, potatoes 20%, livestock 4 to 12%, sugar 24%, eggs 5%. But over-all gains since August were by no means wiped out.

said, were in addition to previously reported aviation concentrations near Aachen.

Preliminary information from the front failed to make clear whether the German attacks were isolated actions, or might be considered the large scale drive the French have been expecting.

Speed Arms Output.

French sources reported the government was speeding production of mechanized military units for fear Germany might strike through neutral countries in an effort to turn the flanks of the Maginot line.

(German Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels declared just two days ago that Germany had no intention of violating the neutrality of Belgium, Holland or Luxembourg, "either now or in the future.")

Observers believed the speed-up measures were decided upon at a meeting of the French-British war council in England yesterday.

They said the lessons learned from the swift advance of mechanized German and Russian units through Poland had emphasized the need for adequate anti-tank and anti-aircraft defenses at the extreme ends of the Magmot fortifications.

German assurances that the frontiers of neighboring neutrals would not be violated were tossed aside lightly by French commentators.

There were increasing evidence a major engagement might develop with extereme suddenness. The question of which side would take the initiative remained a matter of conjecture.

"Big Push" Possible.

Observers pointed out the ever present possibility that the French might elect to launch an offensive with the hope of making fresh gains before Hitler can move up reinforcements released from the Polish campaign.

Trains continued to discharge fresh French and British troops, as well as munitions, at strategic points.

The French claimed the Polish campaign already had cost the Germans 150,000 casualties.

The estimate of the German losses was made last night in a broadcast speech by Jean Giraudoux, French general commissioner of information. Giraudoux also said the Germans had lost 400 to 600 planes and 600 to 700 first line pilots, who are harder to replace than planes.

appeals court at Ashland. Judge Sherick fixed a cash bond of $500 which Black furnished for his release.

The appeals court will hear the contempt charge next Wednesday at Canton, determining whether the order to submit the records is relevant to the case.

Black said he acted on the advice of his attorneys in refusing to turn the records over to counsel for Michael Hallabrin, who filed the suit as a taxpayer.

Black is represented by Attys. Weldon and Huston of Mansfield and Luther Day and Earl LeFever of Cleveland.

Hallabrin's mandamus suit seeks to require County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe and County Treasurer John E. Kolb to assess and collect certain personal taxes allegedly due on the Black estate for the period from 1926 to 1932.

The suit contends that all of the personal property of the late Frank B. Black was not listed for taxation in that period and that taxes on it are still due the county. A state law, later declared unconstitutional, exempted certain personal property from taxation in the six-year period.

Representatives of Mansfield's four banks with which the late Mr. Black had business dealings and Prosecutor G. W. Marriott, representing Auditor Wolfe and Treasurer Kolb, testified yesterday at the taking of depositions in Atty. Rust's office.

The bank officials were Charles W. Fuchs, cashier of the Citizens National Bank and Trust company; C. F. Fighter, secretary-treasurer of the Richland Trust company; Paul M. Eliot, secretary-treasurer of the Farmers Savings and Trust company; Howard G. Miller, assistant cashier of the Mansfield Savings Trust National bank, and Atty. R. E. Hutchison, counsel for the Mansfield Savings Trust National bank and Citizens National Bank and Trust company.

Wolfe and Kolb, defendants in the mandamus suit, were not called.

The action is the outgrowth of two others filed in common pleas court by Hallabrin which named the late Mr. Black's three sons as executors, Harry S. Black, J. A. Rigby and executors of the estate of the late Burton Preston as defendants.

Hallabrin's attorneys, Joseph A. Bayer, Mansfield, and Hart, McHenry and Jones of Canton, withdrew the previous suit after they were denied access to county tax books to determine the amount of taxes paid by the defendants in the 1926-32 period.

land by Russian and German troops yesterday, there seems little doubt that Stalin drove a hard bargain indeed. Lwow Surrenders, Germany Claims.

BERLIN —(INS)— Surrender of Lemberg (Lwow), Polish city which has been the scene of bitter fighting, and further successes in Germany's "mopping up" campaign in Poland were announced today by authoritative military circles in Berlin.

"Lemberg has surrendered to German mountain troops," these authorities stated. The city is situated about 200 miles southeast of beleagured Warsaw.

"The German Galician campaign has netted 103,000 prisoners, 252 light and 23 heavy guns, 37 tanks and huge stores of war material.

"General Bartnowski, chief of the Polish army in the corridor and his staff were taken prisoner at the Bzura river on Thursday."

Meanwhile, the Soviet army was reported bearing down from the east against Warsaw to help smash the Polish capital's defenses against a German siege after Russia took more than half or Poland in a German-Soviet partition agreement.

The Soviet troops moved toward Warsaw from the Bialystok area.

Under the agreement, the Russians are to occupy the entire area of Polish territory east of the Pisa, Narew, Vistula and San rivers, including the rich Dhohobyz oil fields, the Rumanian and Hungarian border strips and such cities as Lemberg, Przemysl, Lubin, Bailystok and Vilna.

In addition, the section of Warsaw east of the Vistula will be taken over by the Soviets, while that on the west will go to the Germans.

The remainder of the country, assigned to Germany, includes the largest manufacturing centers and the Polish industrial triangle.

This arrangement covers only the military occupation of Polish territory by Germany and Russia.

The question of the ultimate "fourth and final" partition of Poland, and that of establishing a possible permanent Polish buffer state between Soviet and German borders, remained to be settled in later negotiations.

Rumania Seeking to Check New Disorders.

BUCHAREST - (AP)—Rumania's virtual military dictatorship worked to check any possible disorders in the country as plans for the slain Premier Armand Calinescu's funeral were complete today.

Slight disturbances were rumored in the provinces, but they could not be confirmed.

The nation as a whole appeared to foreign observers to be reverting to calm, with Rumanian authorities asserting confidence that retallatory measures—in the form of a purge of iron guardists—had provided an effective object lesson for any dissident elements.

The entire nation will be in a state of mourning tomorrow during the Calinescu funeral services at the Atheneum in the presence of high officials and members of Calinescu's family. The body then will be taken in a procession to the railway station for the journey to Calenescu's family home at Curtea De Arges, 90 miles Northwest of Bucharest.

There, in accordance with Calinescu's wishes, the body will be taken in a peasant cart and drawn by six oxen to the grave.

While the government said 292 members of the pro-Nazi iron guard had been executed in punishment for the assassination Thursday of Calinescu, informed sources said the executions totaled "nearly 2,000," including some women.

OUR NEW NAME

While the name of "Jones" will never change as synonymous with service, professional efficiency, reverence and understanding . . . the word "funeral" to many is depressing. It is for this reason that the term "mortuary," "parlors," etc., have been adopted by others in this profession. We have decided to have our new establishment known as THE JONES MEMORIAL, and this name will henceforth be used in all our notices.

Apace With Mansfield's Growth

Anyone taking a drive around Mansfield in the past few months, is amazed at the rapid development and constantly changing boundary lines of our splendid city. It is but natural, therefore, in line with our policy of keeping ever apace with the growth of this community, that we have acquired our new home for funerals, which is located at 681 Park Avenue West, on the corner of Brinkerhoff Avenue and Park Avenue West, overlooking beautiful South Park.

This imposing edifice, with but few changes, is ideally adapted for its purpose. This home, spacious, excellently arranged, and offering many natural advantages for convenience, was chosen after consultation with countless Mansfield friends, and many members of our profession from other cities. It offers to the public of this community an ideal setting for the final tribute to one's loved ones . . . where restful quiet, beautiful trees and the song of the birds are a favorable contrast to the noise and crowds in the heart of a busy city. And with the parking situation so acute today, the ample parking facilities, always available on two streets, is a most important factor with our new home. You can use our own drive entering from Park Avenue, directly to our door, and unload under our porte-cochere if you like.

Not a Neighborhood Establishment

The new JONES MEMORIAL is dedicated for the use of all Mansfield and community, and is in no sense a neighborhood establishment. The scope of its service compares with the nearby Senior High School, which also serves the entire community. Those from every section of our city and county, and of every creed and every nationality are welcome. When you come out to see the many advantages of this location and our unusually complete facilities, we believe that you will agree that no more fitting place could be found anywhere, for a truly worthy last service for a loved one who has passed on.

Our Costs Are Actually Reduced

In the matter of costs the public is entitled to know the truth. Overhead costs in any business determine whether the transaction is expensive or reasonable in charge. In this new establishment, our reasonable investment and a concentration of all overhead costs, makes our operating expenses ACTUALLY LESS than was possible in the high rental down-town district. This saving will be reflected in our charge to those whom we serve, thus every family is assured the most reasonable prices for our services. Here, too, you will find no expensive elaboration . . . but rather a home-like atmosphere that is conducive to comfort, dignity and convenience.

AN INVITATION TO VISIT THIS NEW ESTABLISHMENT

We moved to our new home two weeks ago, and had planned a formal opening. We have been so busy, however, since the change, that we did not think it prudent to have an opening. For we realize that during an opening, we could not do full justice to any family whom we might be called upon to serve. So, instead, we are tendering you a most cordial invitation to visit us at any time within the next ten days, at your convenience, when it will be our pleasure to conduct you through our establishment. We anticipate that many of our friends will call upon us tomorrow. In this manner it will give everyone in our community an opportunity to drive out, park your car, and visit us.

A Farmer's Diary

At the Junk Yard.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

MY OLD CAR would not start, and when I cranked, I heard an ominous commotion beneath the hood. Upon examination I found a broken part, which I removed by some hours of sweaty toil. Since the car was of the vintage of the early '30's I went to the city junk yard for repairs. "What model is it?" was the junk yard keeper's question. I told him, and he smiled. "We have them almost all in here," he said, and as I sized up the long line that were weary sisters of my own, I felt much at home.

Over a four-acre lot, old cars were parked. Some had been there for years. One I saw had holes rusted in its sides and fenders until it looked like a long discarded sieve. The top was weathered through and the tires, where the old corroded rims stood upon them, were a mass of divided shreds and scaly rubber. The front license plate told me it was brought into this Potter's Field in 1918. Above the shattered windshield, a small plaque displayed the manufactured date, 1913. The large round dial of the speedometer upon the dash was still intact, and attached by gears to one front wheel. It read 50,000 miles. The leather cushions had been once inhabited by mice, which long since had moved away. I pictured the uneasy life its occupants had led, bumping over the rugged roads of that early day, clad in goggles and linen dusters.

On the left I saw the wrecks of five late streamlined models. One was folded inward like a rude accordion. Another with a broken body had a hole in the windshield, which looked as though the occupant had made his exit at a rapid rate. I saw dark stains upon the hood, and the faint print of a large hand upon the fender.

Beyond this row of cars was dumped a shiny heap of newly made smoothing irons—more than half a ton. A high pile of well oiled and slightly worn machinery stood out in the open field. At different places were scattered truck loads of new material which had not passed inspection at local manufacturing plants.

Here was the common meeting place of all things that had passed their usefulness, to be dismembered and become a huge scrap heap of redish, rusting metal. The new, shiny stuff betrayed the lack of deftness of hand and brain, that adds to the cost of manufactured goods; those demolished, blood-stained cars portrayed careless disregard of human life, and the older scrap heap showed the natural wear and tear of age.

SEASON GROWS BUSIER WITH SUCCEEDING DAYS

Joint Study Club Luncheon at Westbrook Set for Tuesday; Chi Sigma Installation Dinner and Sorority Shower Important Events.

By FRANCES E. GENSLEY

HAVE you noticed all the showers in Mansfield these past few days? Brides and brides-to-be have been feted almost nightly, and the total result is a row of wedding and shower presents which would reach from here to Cleveland and back. So much nuptial excitement has left us all agog, and with the club season getting into swing in addition we have been busier and busier with each succeeding day.

It's some of the coming events, though, that we want to tell you about, and maybe you'd better have a paper and pencil handy for the brain cells are not always too faithful about recording the date for that tea or luncheon which you plan to attend.

Looking Over the Week's Calendar.

Are you all set? Let's talk about what's to do during the last week of September.

Monday.

The sororities have it on Monday. That is they have set a number of meetings for that evening. Delta Theta chapter members of Delta Theta Tau have planned to entertain for Mrs. Raymond Ness and Mrs. George Call with the Misses Mildred Angle, Helen Bunn, Virginia Anderson, and Mrs. Mildred Adams in charge You remember, I guess, that Mrs. Ness was Alvina Wappner and that she's now at home in Toledo, while Mrs. Call answered to Virginia Leight before she married and went to Tiffin to live.

Mrs. John Bissman and Miss Doris Goodenough will be hostesses at the former's home on Park avenue west when the Beta Sigma Phi sisters gather, while the Zeta Rho chapter will be entertained by Virginia Stevick on Linden road.

Events of the same evening will be the meeting of the Mary B Mitchell Tent at the Memorial building, and the American Legion auxiliary at the home.

The Naomi circle of the White Shrine will meet in regular session at Grotto hall at 7:30 p m following a covered-dish dinner Members are requested, by the committee in charge, to bring table service. It was also announced that there will be no meeting for rehearsal tomorrow as was previously announced. An additional Monday event is the meeting of the United Presbyterian guild at the home of Mrs Merle Roberts.

Tuesday.

Westbrook Country club will be jammed the third day of the week when members of the Conversational, Cosmopolitan, Journey, Round Table, Sappho, Sorosis, Tourist Victorian and Travelers clubs meet there for a joint luncheon and to hear Dr Weston Price, Cleveland dental surgeon, speak on "Nutrition" Mrs. E. R. Hartman is in charge, and has been accepting the reservations

During the evening the Mansfield-Leland hotel will be the scene of a formal installation dinner at 6:45 p m for the new officers of Chi Sigma sorority, while the same afternoon some of the city's busy mothers will attend a tea at the home of Mrs. Lowell Bourns, Euclid avenue. These women will be members of the Child Study club which launches the season with this social event at 3 p. m. Mrs. Dean Fighter will be associate hostess.-- Misses Wilma Snider, Naomi Stutz, Ruth Zelenka, Mary Strater, Marianne Springer, and Mrs. Wilbur Upson are on the installation dinner committee.

The members of the Past Councillors' association, and those in Lady Garfield chapter No. 24, Daughters of America, will motor to Tiffin Tuesday to attend a picnic at the D. of A. home there.

Wednesday.

Some morning you will probably awaken to discover that election day is only a week off, but there is a group of women in the city who already know when it is, and they're busy doing something about it. We write of the Republican Women's council which will have a very important business meeting out at North Lake park on Wednesday. The members will have a covered-dish dinner, too.

Quite a few social organizations have selected Wednesday as their meeting date this year. Among those planning events are the Knotty, Cyane, DeLuxe, Jolly Times and Nuova clubs. The Knotty club members will have a meeting at the Beveridge tea room, and the Susie Janis home will be the scene of the Nuova club luncheon.

Among the church groups to meet Wednesday are the Division A of the United Brethren church, the St. John's guild, and the Christomathean class. There will also be a meeting of the ritualistic committee of the Women of the Moose at the home of Mrs. Grace Koozer

Thursday.

One of the high points of the current nuptial season will be the marriage of Miss Elizabeth Albers and Francis R. O'Brien at St. Peter's Catholic church at 9:30 a. m. Thursday. In the evening members of Gamma chapter of Tri-Gam will entertain the other chapters with a farmerette party. If it weren't for the fact that I've been sworn to secrecy I could tell the girls in the other chapters something pretty exciting about this affair, but, "Sh, sh, sh," I can only tell you that you'd better be at the club rooms at 7 o'clock.

Thursday night the members of the Joan of Arc circle, D. of I., will entertain with a benefit card party, and on the same date there will be a meeting of the Master Plumbers' association auxiliary and the Mary-Martha Bible club

JOSEPHINE HENNESS, JOHN CHATLAIN WED

Nuptial Ceremony Performed By Family Friend, Rev. James A. Verburg, at Altar of Central Methodist Church Today.

WEARING with her wedding costume the same bridal veil which her sister, the former Miss Rosalie Henness, wore when she was married to Charles McMullen just a year ago, Miss Mary Josephine Henness became the bride of John K. Chatlain of Chicago, Ill., this morning. Rev. James A. Verburg, friend of the bride's parents from Columbus, read the ceremony at 11:45 o'clock before the altar of the Central Methodist church.

The bride, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry V. Henness, 142 Stewart avenue, was escorted by her father to the altar, which was banked with palms, ferns, and beauty baskets of chrysanthemums and pompons and lighted with four seven-branched candelabra.

The former Miss Henness was attired in a pure white waltzlite taffeta gown with an extremely long sweeping train for her wedding. The pleated bodice of the dress was trimmed at the waist with a wide band of pin tucking, and the same motif edged the top of the deep flounce on the bottom of the skirt. The sleeves of the gown were leg-o-mutton style and it had a modified sweetheart neckline. The two-tiered bridal veil was held in place by a tiara of pearlized lilies-of-the-valley. The bride's only jewelry was a double strand of pearls, a gift from the bridegroom. She carried a rose point lace kerchief, which both her mother and sister carried when they were married. Her bridal bouquet was of white Killarney roses centered with a white Catleya orchid and lilies-of-the-valley.

Sister Attends.

Mrs McMullen was her sister's matron-of-honor, and her rose soiree gown was fashioned along the same lines as the bride's except that it had puffed sleeves and only a short train. Her quaint velvet hat matched the dress and was trimmed with tiny ostrich tips.

Miss Dorothy Yauger was the maid-of-honor, and she wore a Viennese purple taffeta dress, styled with a long-waisted shirred bodice. The full hooped skirt was trimmed with bands of cyclamen velvet ribbon. Miss Yauger wore a margot poke bonnet of cyclamen velvet trimmed with ostrich tips.

Miss Marianna Crips of Chicago, who is a cousin of the bride, and Miss Florence Acker of Toledo were the bridesmaids. Their gowns, which were cyclamen waltzlite taffeta, were made exactly like Miss Yauger's. Bands of Vienese purple velvet ribbon trimmed the skirts of their dresses and their bonnets were of this same shade.

All of the bride's attendants carried tiny shirred velvet finger muffs in shades complimentary to their gowns. These were decorated with tiny contrasting velvet bows and a variety of shades of Catleya orchids.

Brother, Best Man.

Mr. Chatlain, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Byron Chatlain, 53 Highland avenue, chose his brother, Dean, to be his best man. Another brother, Dave, was an usher, as were Charles McMullen, Howard D. Yarnell and Robert Hartmann.

Two friends of the bride furnished the nuptial music preceding the ceremony. Miss Eleanor Clingan presided at the organ playing "Liebestraum" by Liszt, "Russian Romance" by Friml, and "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice" by Saint-Saens. She played "At Dawning" by Cadman during the ceremony. Miss Jane Weuthrick of Cleveland sang "Love Is the Sweetest Thing" by Noble and "I Love You Truly" by Bond.

Mrs. Henness was attired in a dress of thick mist blue with dubonnet accessories for her daughter's wedding. Her shoulder corsage was made from Briarcliff roses. Mrs. Chatlain wore a gown in two shades of blue with navy blue accessories and a shoulder corsage of Talisman roses.

After the wedding there was a breakfast and reception for families and friends of the couple at the Women's Club. Later this afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Chatlain left for a short wedding trip, and after Oct. 5 they will make their home at 5214 Woodlawn avenue in Chicago. For traveling Mrs. Chatlain wore a two-piece wool costume suit, which had a viking blue dress with a deeper blue jacket and trim. Her antelope turban and other accessories were winetone.

Go to School Here.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Chatlain are graduates of Mansfield Senior high school. She also attended Mansfield Commercial institute and was employed at the Ohio Public Service company before her marriage. She is a member of Delta chapter, Gamma Gamma Gamma sorority. Mr. Chatlain was a member of Alpha Omicron Alpha fraternity while attending Ashland college. He is now studying at George Williams college in Chicago and works at the Hyde Park department of the Y. M. C. A. in connection with his studies there.

Out-of-town guests who were here for the wedding and reception were: Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Volk, Galion; Miss Acker, Toledo; James Polatty, Columbia, S. C.; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Graham, Mrs. Anna Crips and Miss Marianna, Chicago: Miss Weuthrick, Cleveland, and Mrs. Bertha Crips, Cody, Wyo.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

I knew better than to relax one iota of my wary watchfulness, even though I knew that his proposal called for gracious acquiescence on my part, and I watched him carefully as I made my answer.

"If my father will agree, you have my permission, certainly," I said. "And I am sure he will agree, although he may impose certain restrictions as to time and safeguards."

"That, of course," he said quickly. "It all will really be very simple. I shall make arrangements at once for the members of the cast to come out today to my hotel, prepared to stay indefinitely. They can be made very comfortable there, and once each day, either morning or afternoon, to suit your convenience, I shall bring them all over here for several hours' rehearsal. They will have luncheon or breakfast just before they come, depending upon the hour of the rehearsal, and luncheon or dinner when they return to the hotel. So they really should not cause you any inconvenience, except the use of a room during the rehearsal hours."

Library Available.

"I think the library will be available," I said. "Any business of my father's will be transacted in his own suite."

"I can think of nothing more suitable than the library," Philip Veritzen said, and looked at his wrist watch with a satisfied little smile.

"I have taken less than the five minutes agreed upon between us," he said. "Have you any idea when I can receive your father's verdict upon my proposal?"

"I am sorry," I said, "but it is impossible for me to tell you that now. He is very much engaged just now, and will be for some time to come. If you wish to wait—"

"I cannot do that," he interrupted. "I must get back and arrange for the stay of the players at the hotel, and, of course, I must telephone them to find out when they can come out."

"Then I will telephone you my father's verdict as soon as I receive it."

"Thank you," he said. He hesitated perceptibly, then continued with a diffidence surprising in him.

"I would prefer that you couch your answer so no chance listener can guess its meaning," he said.

"That will not be difficult," I said, smiling. "I simply shall say over the telephone, 'The arrangement you planned is satisfactory, or, 'I am sorry but I find the arrangement to be impossible.' If I give you the first answer, I will add the words, 'for forenoon,' or, 'for afternoon,' depending upon which time is more convenient for us here. Will that be satisfactory?"

"Eminently so," he returned, and rose from his chair with the patent intention of taking his leave. But with the thought of averting possible unpleasantness for Otto, I spoke quickly.

"I may be able to learn something of my father's plans now, although it is a slender chance," I said. "Would you mind waiting here for a minute?"

"As long as you like," he said, and I went swiftly out of the door, being careful to close it after me. Then I hurried to the kitchen, finding Otto enjoying an impromptu lunch and "bit of talk" with Katie and Jim.

"Mr Veritzen will be ready to go in three minutes, Otto," I said as I went through the kitchen to the back stairs on my way to my father's rooms.

The chauffeur raised his eyes to Heaven, and uttered a guttural ejaculation. Then with a "tank you," addressed to my retreating back, and others to Katie, he was off, ready to stand at respectful attention when Mr. Veritzen should come out.

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, Sept. 24.

SUNDAY'S horoscope is a fairly routine one, with the accent placed on the customary religious, friendly, social and festive occupations, and with avocations moving in happy grooves. Literary, artistic or musical interests may enliven the day, with companionship in such directions encouraged.

Those whose birthday it is may enjoy a fairly successful day, with much flourishing in all cultural, educational and artistic matters, which should attain important recognition or promise. But friendly companionship and social activities may lure from workaday interests and incite to undue extravagance.

A child born on this day may be talented in many artistic and educational or intellectuad pursuits, assuring it place and popularity in its social aspirations.

For Monday, Sept. 25.

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for a fairly lively and progressive state of affairs, both old and new. This may involve some sudden and disruptive change, which at first may be startling. But since there are definite benefits shown at the hands of elders, possibly through a gift, trust or bequest, the denouement may be a very happy one.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a sudden and surprising change. At first it may seem to have the force of catastrophe or disaster, but in the long run there is promise of happiness as there are auguries of inheritance, gifts or other tokens of esteem, affection or preferment from elders.

A child born on this day may have many traits and abilities of a sturdy and steadfast quality, making it the beneficiary of its elders or other kindly companions.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

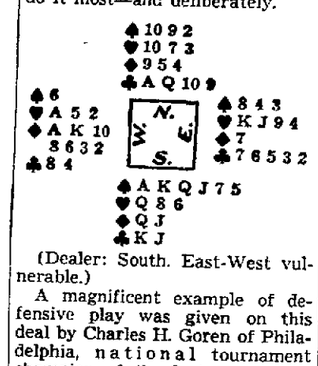
"The Authority on Authorities"

TRUMP THAT ACE

Though it is habitually regarded as the worst play in the game, trumping your partner's ace, in the proper spot, may be one of the best. That is true usually when it is essential for you to get into the lead and do something which is impossible except from your side of the table. Most people would opine that partners' aces are trumped more by duffers than by fine players, but a careful checkup probably would show that the very greatest experts are the ones who do it most—and deliberately.



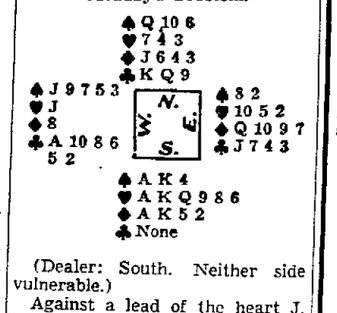
(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

A magnificent example of defensive play was given on this deal by Charles H. Goren of Philadelphia, national tournament champion of the last season. At most tables South played at 4-Spades. Where West led a third diamond, the contract was made by ruffing, dropping trumps and discarding two hearts on clubs. Where West shifted on the third round to a heart, the game was beaten one trick.

Mr. Goren's partner had such unbounded confidence in him that he made an absurd double of only 3-Spades. The diamond K was led, then the A. Mr. Goren trumped this and returned the only heart that could set the contract, the J. He reckoned that the contract was hopeless unless his partner had the heart A, as seemed probable from the bidding. If so, the J return would result in three heart tricks, even if South had the Q.

Just figure out that combination of cards and notice what would have happened, even with the brilliant trumping of the A, if any other heart had been returned. North and South would have taken at least one heart trick, and the 3-Spade contract would have been made.

Monday's Problem.



(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

Against a lead of the heart J, how should South play for 6-Hearts on this deal?

CHAPTER XII.

"Yes," Craig put in. "He had a big portion of trouble with a lot of ignorant and unreasonable men. He couldn't placate them, and the situation was getting worse every day. Then, on the other hand, a great happiness had just come into his life. But Uncle was not one to bow his head under mental trouble. He met such things as the mob of beligerent men with haughty scorn. I daresay that made them more angry. In fact he was about to resign from the whole matter, and leave them to shift for themselves. You see, Stone, he was concerned in a project for improving the town. So his brain was often in a moil and sometimes he seemed to be all in."

"Uncle Harley died from some physical ailment," Sheldon said, "even if old Bascom says he didn't. An autopsy will tell what the trouble was. That is, unless the Examiner can tell by examination. He knows a lot more than our Bright and Shining Light. By the way, Aunt Corny, Bascom is maneuvering to have a statue of his blessed self in the rejuvenated New Plymouth."

"It won't matter what maneuvers he tries now," Miss Madison said, with a wan smile, "the Village Improvement may or may not go on, but I think, without the support, both personal and financial, of my brother, they will find their progress hard sledding."

"You mean they wanted to do over this village—modernize it?" Stone asked.

"That was their fond hope," Craig informed him. "And as Uncle planned it, at first, it was a good bet. But the ungrateful, pigheaded old back numbers didn't appreciate Uncle's high ideals and sane propositions and they turned the whole thing into an Exhibition of Bad Taste."

"Had they a right to do this?"

"They hadn't really done it, yet, but the thing hung in the balance. Uncle showed his hand too plainly. He promised to put in something like two-thirds of his whole fortune, which would have made a medium-sized Paradise. He expected the others would put in, not nearly so much, but a fair proportion of their own wealth. The citizens are by no means paupers."

"And then, you see," Tom added, "the profiteers: They wanted Uncle to buy their land for this or that purpose, whether it was the right location or not. And they asked such outrageous prices, that once in a while Uncle was forced to tell them what he thought of them. This led to ah icy backtalk, and it would be a wonder if the way the curmudgeons acted hadn't affected Uncle's brain. But it didn't. We all agree to that. Harley Madison was too well-balanced."

"Well, those racketeers won't get anything from Mr. Madison's estate," Anita said, with an air of satisfaction, "for I saw him tear up the will."

"He died intestate, then?" asked Stone.

"Yes, said Cornelia, "his estate must be apportioned by law. I have not told my brother's lawyer yet, but of course, he will have charge of the settlements."

"Who are the heirs?" asked Stone.

"There are but three, myself and my two nephews," Miss Madison said.

* * *

Fenn and Bascom were baffled. They had reached the conclusion that a post mortem was distinctly indicated.

"It is undoubtedly cerebral thrombosis," the examiner pronounced; "but how can it be that, when the man is so relaxed and in a natural position?"

Doctor Bascom sighed. He had expected this great authority would state at once the cause of Madison's death, and would explain its mysterious aspects. Instead of that, Doctor Fenn seemed to know no more than the village G. P.

"Who came in here and saw him dead first?" he asked

"Elkanah; he's a sort of steward, and while he was Mr Madison's valet, and he was a lot of other things beside."

"Can we have him up here?"

"Of course," and Doctor Bascom opened the door to the hall. Elkanah sat on a hall chair, waiting to be summoned.

"Come in here, Garson," the doctor said, and the man obeyed.

The assistant medical examiner looked at him and said:

"You're the one who first discovered that Mr. Madison was dead? Tell me the circumstances."

"Well, sir, every morning Wilkins, he's the butler, took Mr. Madison some hot coffee at 8 o'clock That wasn't his breakfast, it was just a sort of bracer."

"And when Wilkins brought the tray what happened?"

"Why, nothing Mr. Madison always locked his hall door as soon as he got in his room He had a fear of burgulars His wanders, as you see, sir, all have those patent gadgets that lets you leave 'em some open, and yet a burgular couldn't spy in through."

"Then how does the butler get in with the tray of a morning?"

"Mr Madison was always awake early an He'd hop outen of bed and unlock the door, and hop back again Wilkins would just walk in and put the coffee on a little table by the bed, and Mr. Madison helped himself."

"And this morning, Mr. Madison hadn't unlocked the door; did he often forget?"

"No, sir! Mr. Madison never forgot. And he didn't forget it this morning, either,—how could he, when he was dead?"

"What did Wilkins do?"

"He knocked, but soft like, cause he didn't want to distrub other folks a-sleeping. And when there wasn't no answer, he come downstairs a looking for me."

"What did you do?"

"Well, sir, there's no way to get into this room, 'cept through that one door. That other door there, goes into the bathroom. So I ups with a long ladder, and looks in the window, and I see Mr. Madison lyin' in bed like he was asleep. But I know he ain't asleep. I sensed there was somethin' the matter, soon's I heard the door was locked. I was so sure I'd have to get in the winder, I took some tools along with me, up the ladder, and I cut out a ring-around of the glass, and poked in my hand and turned the catch. Then o' course, I clumb in the winder, and I found him."

"What did you do then?"

"I called Hetty, that's my wife, and I told her to go and tell Miss Madison about her brother. My wife's the housekeeper, but she and Miss Cornelia has always been friends like, and I knew Hetty could tell her gentle and respectful."

* * *

But the medical examiner had ceased to listen; he was looking about the room, and staring at the walls.

"I say, Doctor Bascom, would you be willing for Fleming Stone to come up here—now?"

"Why, of course, Doctor Fenn," Bascom replied, but he was not enthusiastic. He had hoped to acquire merit by working with the examiner, but he hadn't acquired any, noticeably. And now if the great detective came into the investigation, he, Bascom was not likely to attain any special prominence.

Doctor Fenn was telling Elkanah to go down and bring Mr. Stone up for consultation if he would be kind enouzh to come.

The errand was successful, and Stone came in, whereupon Fenn dismissed Elkanah, and closed the door.

"Take a look at him," Fenn said, nodding toward the bed and Stone obeyed.

"Have you come to a decision?" he asked

"We have come to a decision that we can't come to a decision without an autopsy," Fenn told him. "There is nothing to give us any hint as to the cause of death But before we take him away, I wanted to call your attention to this room. I should say it is what you detectives call 'a hermetically sealed' room. I mean, when Mr. Madison came in, and locked the door that leads into the hall, there was no possibility of entrance by any one else. This doesn't matter, since we have no reason to think any ill-intentional person did intrude."

"No way in?" said Stone, musingly. "There are five doors. May I open them?"

"Of course," said Bascom, "they lead nowhere."

* * *

The first one Stone tried led into a bathroom. It had no other door, and gave no outlet to the hall. Its one window was a long oval, high up on the wall, and was unavailable as an entrance.

The next two were doors of clothes closets. The only other door was fastened with a large and heavy brass bolt. Stone looked at it curiously.

"Do you know where this leads?" he asked.

"No," Fenn returned, "I thought it was another closet."

Stone drew the heavy bolt, and found that the door opened into a small, pleasant room, like a sitting-room or reception room.

"It is not a closet," he said, "but also it is not an entrance into Mr. Madison's bedroom."

"Why isn't it?" asked Fenn, coming nearer.

"Because this is a spring bolt. See, you can push back the bolt and open the door, but on the other side there is no latch or knob or anything to take hold of. You can open this door from this side, but, if closed it bolts itself and it cannot be opened from the other side at all. So it is of no use as a means of access to our sealed room. Do you mind, Doctor Fenn and Doctor Bascom, if I take a look at the body?"

"Of course not," Fenn said; "you have every right to do so."

* * *

Fleming Stone did not wait for a response from the village doctor but turned his attention to the dead man. If he could find a trace of anything that pointed to homicide, he would be very much interested in the question of the sealed room, but if Harley Madison had not been killed, then the closed windows and the locked doors had little interest for the detective.

Yet though his practiced eye included every condition of the dead man, he found no hint of ill-treatment and no sign of any wound.

Your beauty, Fall, is more vigorous than the pastel loveliness of your sister Spring . . . more restful than the active Summer . . . more companionable than Winter, who shuts us in our houses, and blankets the earth and all things that grow with her mantle. You are a woman of maturity, full bosomed and tawny haired. You are welcome Fall—with the blue grapes from the vine, and the threshed wheat and tasseled corn. These things will not grow until another year, but your coming has laden our table with their goodness, so that we may feel—when Winter comes, she too will be welcome, for Fall has given us plenty, with which to be hospitable.

GAINS MOMENTUM

Six-man football is gaining momentum in the smaller institutions in these parts, and a league may be formed next year, we understand.

The six-man rules call for three players to be on the line, and three in the backfield, on offense. The ball must be passed to one of the backs by the center, and that back cannot run with the ball. He must pass (not hand) it to some other member of the backfield, who then can run with it, or pass to any member of the squad, all six men being eligible for passes.

The playing field is 80 yards long and 40 yards wide. A smaller ball than the regulation oval is permissible. The kick-off is made from the 30-yard line. Touchdowns count six points, field goals four. Goals after touchdown count two points if made on a kick, or one if on a pass or plunge. The game automatically terminates when one team gets 45 points ahead of the other, regardless of the time left to play. Passes batted down before crossing the line of scrimmage are free balls, and may be advanced by the defensive side. In practically all other cases the 11-man game's rules prevail.

LOUIS PAYS OFF

HENRY McLEMORE, U-P sports star, writes: This is a story about a man being fed by the hand that bit him. In 1937 Joe Louis knocked out Jim Braddock to win the heavyweight championship of the world with a right hand smash that all but tore Jim's head off, left him senseless on the floor and put him in the hospital. It was a terrific punch—Louis says it is just about the hardest one he ever landed—and every one in the big crowd at Chicago that night felt awfully, awfully sorry for the veteran Irishman.

But that punch was the most profitable one any fighter ever took. It landed only two years ago but already it has earned Braddock upwards of $10.000. and judging from the events of night before last it will bring him in that much more.

The reason: Braddock gets 10 per cent of whatever Louis is paid for defenses of his heavyweight title. That was a little stipulation demanded by Braddock before he would sign to give Louis a shot at his title and to sidetrack Max Schmeling, the man who really deserved a chance at the championship in June of 1937.

Bellville Registers Second Straight Triumph; Butler Bows to Centerburg. Cupid Reduces Tribe Holdout List to Two.

By CHARLES MARTIN

THE MADISON HIGH RAMS went on a scoring spree yesterday as they registered an impressive 32 to 7 triumph over the New London high grid machine at New London.

Coach Al Fendrick's green-uniformed footballers pounded over touchdowns in every period in marking up their initial victory of the season.

Madison, using substitutes freely, started the ball rolling in the initial period when Chuholaff fell on a New London fumble behind the Wildcats' goal.

The Madison aggregation added single markers in the second and third chapters and climaxed its scoring with a pair of touchdowns in the final stanza.

* * *

New London, on the defense most of the time, managed to put together a drive in the third period to tally its lone score. A series of passes put the ball on the Madison two and Evans carried the pigskin over.

After Chuholaff spotted the Rams to a 6 to 0 lead, they opened a goalward drive in the second chapter that was climaxed by Dave Weimer's plunge through center from the 10. Bill Heichel kicked the extra point.

Doug DeNero set the stage for the longest run of the day when he intercepted a New London pass on the Madison 40 in the third. He returned to the 45 and lateraled to Heichel who raced down the sidelines into pay dirt. A Matthes-to-Barber pass added the point.

* * *

Heichel opened scoring activities in the final frame by returning a New London punt 30 yards for the fourth touchdown, and Dave Weimer completed the scoring parade by galloping 15 yards around right end for the last trip into pay territory.

* * *

Madison collected 10 first downs to New London's nine. The Wildcats never threatened outside of the time they staged their touchdown march in the third against the Rams' second string.

WILLARD—Shelby and Willard high school elevens battled to a scoreless tie in a night game before 2,000 here last night.

And, so, this year's football rivalry between the twin coaches, Bill and Dave Query, of Shelby and Willard, respectively, also ends in a tie.

Last night's annual game developed into a punting duel, with honors about even. Both teams were offered scoring opportunities, but neither took advantage of them.

In the fading minutes of the final period, Kenneth Thorton of Willard intercepted a Shelby pass on the visitors' 48 and crossed the goal line. The touchdown, however, was nullified by a Willard clipping penalty.

Shelby neared touchdown territory in every period. In the first quarter, for instance, the Whippets reached the 12, but a fumble stopped the drive.

The Whippets registered seven first downs to only two for the hosts.

Blue Jays Whip Granville. 25-14

GRANVILLE — Coach Royd Hodge's Bellville high Blue Jays chalked up their second straight triumph of the season here yesterday by turning back a scrappy Granville high combine, 25 to 14.

Trailing by a 14 to 13 count at the intermission, the Bellville aggregation came back with a pair of touchdowns in the second half to emerge with the decision.

Granville put a scare into the Blue and White shirted athletes when it converted a Bellville fumble into a touchdown to take an early advantage. That lead, however, seemed to bring the invaders into action and in three plays Dick Keiser ploughed through center into paydirt and Howard Hamilton kicked the point to tie the score.

Hamilton put Bellville ahead late in the initial quarter by galloping 22 yards around right end on a reverse for his team's second tally. Hamilton missed the conversion.

Granville, after taking the lead late in the second period, never threatened again. The Hodge-coached team took things in its own hands at the opening of the second half. Keiser dashed over from the 15 for the third touchdown and then Clinton Dill put the game on ice by going 12 yards for the final tally in the last period.

Bellville, which piled up 12 first downs to Granville's nine, completely stemmed the losers' attack after the rest period. Not once was Granville able to penetrate inside the Bellville 30-yard stripe.

Crestline Turns Back Galion. 20-7.

CRESTLINE — Crestline high's 1939 football edition accomplished a couple of feats last night that will remain in the record books for some time.

Coach Merle Hutson's gridders met a favored Galion high combine under the floodlights here and when hostilities were over the Crestline team held a 20 to 7 decision over its rivals and also knocked them from the undefeated list of Ohio high school elevens.

It was the first defeat for Galion since 1937. Previously the Orange and Purple team had chalked up nine straight victories. The only blemish on the record was a 13-13 tie with Shelby last year. The win was the second scored by Crestline over Galion in 15 years.

Crestline, led by Bob Frye, who personally tallied all three touchdowns, did all its scoring in the first and second quarters to topple the North Central Ohio co-champions before a capacity crowd.

Frye opened the scoring by crashing over from the nine in the initial frame. And then in the second period, Frye tossed a 21-yard aerial to Capt. Phil Ganni for touchdown No. 2. Frye added the third marker by ploughing over from the two as the gun ended the half.

The Crestline machine drove to the Galion three in the third, but Sanderlin halted the threat by intercepting a pass.

Durstchi heaved a 14-yard pass to Cahill for Galion's lone score in the final period. Crestline added up 15 first downs while Galion was registering five.

Junior Tygers Nip Massillon In Wild Game

Brandt, Templeton Score For Sophomores In 25-18 Win Over Jones Eleven.

So far this year Mansfield high school football teams have taken care of everything Massillon representatives have tossed their way.

If the Tygers do as well today as the sophomores have in two games, Mansfield followers of the bengal squad will return late this afternoon in a joyous mood.

Coach Harry Mehock's sophomores hung up their second victory of the season and the second over a Massillon junior high eleven at Stadium field yesterday when they whipped Edmund Jones, 25 to 18, in a spectacular ball game.

* * *

Although outweighed by the junior Tygers, the Jones boys put up a stiff battle, and Mansfield did not cinch the decision until the final minutes.

Adam Brandt scored the winning touchdown from the three on a line plunge to break an 18 to 18 tie. Brandt also bucked over the extra point.

The winning touchdown was set up by Jim Templeton, who intercepted a desperate Massillon pass near the midfield. Bill Doolittle's lateral to Brandt placed the ball on the three.

Brandt was the outstanding offensive ball player for the young Tygers. He accounted for three of the four touchdowns. Templeton tallied the other.

Brandt accounted for the first score in the opening period when he raced 45 yards into pay territory. A pass from Bray, Massillon's colored star, to Holt, which netted 52 yards, put the visitors in position for their first touchdown. Holt bucked it over from the one early in the second frame.

* * *

Brandt tallied for Mansfield and Pappas threw to Bray for the other scores in the first half, which ended in a 12 to 12 tie.

* * *

Templeton was instrumental in the scoring of the first touchdown in the third quarter. His two passes to Doolittle and Kenny Krupp, which preceded an eight yard gain by him, enabled him to tally. A 45-yard run late in the third period by Bray permitted Massillon to tie the score, 18-all, and this was not broken until the fading minutes.

Cards Refuse To Yield In Pennant Race

Remain Only Three Games Behind Leading Reds; Feller Wins No. 22.

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer.

This National league pennant fight has become a "war on nerves," with the baseball world waiting to see whether the Cincinnati Reds or the St. Louis Cardinals crack first.

On the face of matters, the Reds seem to have passed an important crisis by plastering a pair of defeats on the Pittsburgh Pirates yesterday, 7-0 and 10-9, to expand their lead to three full games.

The Cardinals cuffed the Chicago Cubs, 3-2, yesterday for their fifth straight victory and their 11th in 13 games. That certainly furnishes no opportunity for relaxation by the Reds.

* * *

This was the way they came to the post today:

	W.	L.	G.B.	G.P.
Cincinnati	90	54	—	10
St. Louis	87	57	3	9

The Reds, confronted with another doubleheader with the Pirates today, made the most out of their chances yesterday, but left a lot of supporters a bit shaken about the way they did it.

The first game, Gene (Junior) Thompson hurled seven-hit ball, Ernie Lombardi hit his 20th home run and Ival Goodman contributed two triples. They started just as impressively in the nightcap, taking a 7-0 lead in the third inning when Wally Berger homered with the bases loaded.

But then they gave up seven runs in one inning on three hits, three walks and three errors. It was anybody's ball game after that, and the Reds were lucky to win.

The Cardinals ganged up on Larry French in the fourth with three runs on two singles and two doubles. Bob Bowman came through with some sparkling pinch pitching when the Cubs began getting playful with Mort Cooper's offerings.

Bob Feller got his 22nd victory of the campaign as the Cleveland Indians downed Detroit, 5-4.

* * *

The Boston Red Sox raked three Philadelphia pitchers for 13 hits and bunched four runs in the fourth to beat the Athletics 7-5.

Hi-Speeds Close At Lucas Sunday

The Mansfield Hi-Speeds, managed by Earl Herrick, will conclude their baseball season with a double-header at Lucas against the Richland county league champion at Lucas at 1:30 p. m. Sunday.

Manager Herrick announced today that Petey Beer and Don Dudley will twirl for the Hi-Speeds, with Lefty Diehl and Oswalt performing on the hill for Lucas.

REFUSE APPLICATIONS

CINCINNATI —(INS)— Already assured of capacity crowds should the Reds win the National league pennant, the front office of the Cincinnati Baseball club announced today that no more world series ticket applications would be accepted. More than 65,000 applications have been received to date. —enough to fill an enlarged Crosley field twice, officials announced.

Hank Edwards Reports To Cleveland Indians

Hank Edwards, Mansfield right fielder, who won the Ohio State league batting title with a .395 mark, reported to the Cleveland Indians at League park today at Manager Oscar Vitt's request. Edwards was recently recalled from Mansfield by Springfield, which is also a Cleveland farm.

Tackle Akron Eleven

Earl McMullen's Team to Face Strong Foe In Inaugural at Blue Goose Field.

THE KICK-OFF scheduled at 2:30 p. m., Coach Earl McMullen's Automotive Supplies will lift the lid on the Mansfield semi-professional football season at Blue Goose field Sunday.

The Mansfield team's first foe will be the Akron O'Neils, who are regarded as one of the stronger Akron semi-pro elevens again this season.

* * *

The Supplies are well supplied with material from past Mansfield and Madison high school clubs, and McMullen believes his team will present a better brand of football than followers of semi-pro clubs in this city have been accustomed to witnessing.

* * *

McMullen has constructed a strong line in front of a backfield which he expects to have "speed to burn." Listed among the backs are Joe Miller and Willard Lockhart of Madison fame and Al Schwaner and Vern Heiser, former Mansfield high luminaries.

Schwaner.

Heiser is a veteran semi-pro player who was a member of the Ohio State squad two years, and he is expected to be the keyman in the Supplies' attack this season.

Schwaner and Miller played high school ball last season, and both are expected to succeed in the semi-pro field as both are powerful runners.

The line will include Elmer Dials, Gaylord Bucher, Paul Sturgeon, Ralph Pierce and Joe Wagenhals of recent Mansfield high, clubs.

Dials, who was a member of the Mansfield team which tied Massillon two years ago, was a freshman at Ohio State last fall season, but did not return to school this year. He is an end.

Bucher was the only player in history to ever be placed on an All-Ohio high school selection as a sophomore. A guard, Bucher was named to the team two years in a row. He was not eligible in his senior year because of age.

A host of other players known to Mansfield semi-pro followers will be in the lineup Sunday, McMullen said.

"The Women."

The brilliant answer to Claire Boothe's question "What do women talk about when they are alone?" comes to the screen under the title of "The Women," and the answer, of course, is men. Miss Boothe's scintillating stage play, shorn of its too-spicy-for-the-screen dialogue, but still retaining more brittle wisecracks per foot than is found in the average picture, has been made into a picture and is the Ohio attraction today and for the first half of the week at least. The plot shows that many a woman is launched on the road to Reno at bridge parties and in beauty shops. An extraordinary cast of all women is headed by Norma Shearer, Joan Crawford and Rosalind Russell.

"Golden Boy."

The picture which is being shown at the Madison today in connection with the Renfro Valley Barn Dance stage show, is "Stop, Look and Love." Tomorrow the theater presents the screen version of Clifford Odets' highly successful stage play, "Golden Boy." A new player, William Holden has the important title role, with Barbara Stanwyck and Adolphe Menjou also starred. "Golden Boy" is the drama of a sensitive boy with the soul and ability of a musician and the mauling fists of a boxing champion. On the same bill is "Parents On Trial" with Jean Parker and Johnny Downs.

"Dark Victory."

"Dark Victory," which many movie commentators believe will be selected as the best picture of 1939, will be offered at the Ritz tomorrow and Monday. This is one of Bette Davis' greatest pictures and provides George Brent with a most sympathetic role. It is the story of a spoiled society girl who finds herself through a dark tragedy. Humphrey Bogart too, for a change, has a sympathetic role and a fascinating newcomer, Geraldine Fitzgerald, is presented. The second feature is Warner Baxter, Cesar Romero and Lynn Bari in "The Return of The Cisco Kid."

"Good Girls Go to Paris."

Joan Blondell plans to be a "bad girl" so she can go to Paris, but in the end she accomplishes the same purpose by being a very good girl. She plans to blackmail a wealthy family for the money for the Paris trip, but instead saves the daughter from a scandal and pays the son's gambling debts with her blackmail booty. Melvyn Douglas is an interested and active spectator in this romantic comedy which comes to the Park tomorrow. Tailspin Tommy (John Trent) in "Stunt Pilot" will also be shown.

"Yes My Darling Daughter."

Priscilla Lane and Jeffrey Lynn, the "sweethearts" of the "Four Daughters" series, are teamed in this comedy of old and modern standards. There is a hubbub about a week-end party at the beach which very nearly breaks up a romance. Roland Young and Fay Bainter are the anguished parents of a modern miss, and May Robson has ideas much younger than her years. Ian Hunter and Genevieve Tobin round out the cast of this Majestic theater attraction for Sunday and Monday. Wallace Beery in "Sergeant Madden" is the second feature.

Renfro Troupe to Put City On Air Twice In 3 Days

For the second time in three days the name of Mansfield will go out over the nation in a coast-to-coast broadcast when the Renfro Valley Barn Dance gives its regular Saturday night program for WLW from the stage of the Madison theater tonight.

The popular radio feature comes to Mansfield today for the second time, having appeared here last year. At that time the evening shows attracted such crowds that the sidewalks were blocked for a block in each direction from the theater.

There will be five full shows presented today. The first evening show gets under way at 6:45 which gives the performers 15 minutes to "warm up" for the nation-wide broadcast, which goes on the air at 7 p. m.

All of the well known stars of the program are with the group in Mansfield, including Red Foley and his "gi-tar"; the Coon Creek Girls, who entertained King George and Queen Elizabeth at the White House this summer; A'nt Idy and Little Clifford and Uncle Juney, Whitey Ford, The Duke of Paducah, Homer Miller and the Golden West Girls.

Mansfield got its other nation-wide recognition Thursday evening when Major Edward Bowes saluted the city on his weekly amateur hour.

TRADERS IGNORE WAR STOCKS TO BUY RAIL STOCKS

Pullman, Airbrakes Shares Go Upward In Slower Day on Wall Street Market.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Stock market buyers got behind rail equipment and specialties in today's brief session and neglected many of the recently strong war issues.

There was little change in the news picture, from a market standpoint, although domestic business promise remained sufficiently bright to bolster selected stocks throughout.

Transfers were around 600,000 shares, one-half the volume last Saturday.

Stimulating carrier equipments were forecasts freight loadings late in October would jump to a weekly aggregate of between 880,000 and 900,000 cars, a peak since October, 1930.

Stocks stepping into higher ground included Pullman, Westinghouse Airbrake, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Southern Railway, N. Y. Central, Loft, du-Pont, Union Carbide, Eastman Kodak, J. C. Penney and General Motors.

U. S. governments did better in the bond department and corporate loans improved. Commodities were mixed.

Constructive indications marketwise were seen in the figures of the Rubber Manufacturers' association disclosing demand for replacement automotive casing continued at a high level during August, with shipments the largest for that month since 1929.

Not so pleasing was the summary of the federal reserve system showing the country's department store sales for the week ended Sept. 16, flattened out considerably.

END WAR, DUCE'S CALL TO EUROPE

Italian Premier Says Time Has Arrived For Powers to Halt Hostilities.

Il Duce referred also to the Soviet Union's invasion of Poland.

"It was the prudent intention of not spreading the conflict that the governments in London and Paris have not done more in the face of the Russian fait accompli," Mussolini said.

"But the consequence is that these governments compromised their moral justification in taking action against the German fait accompli."

Mussolini ordered party leaders to round up rumor mongers and he described Masonic and Jewish elements as riffraff and foreign anti-Fascist sympathizers.

"We must not allow them or others to undermine the physical and moral health of the Italian people," he said. "The Italian people realize that their pilot must not be disturbed, especially when he is engaged in stormy navigation, nor must he be asked questions about his course."
